Wholesale propane allocation imposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House today imposed a mandatory allocation system on wholesale supplies of propane gas and said a mandatory allocation system for home heating oil will put into effect "in the near future."

John A. Love, director of the President's Energy Policy Office, said the mandatory allocation programs are necessary "to ensure that no home or hospital goes without adequate heat and no farm is without adequate propane" this winter.

Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton told newsmen the heating oil allocation regulations would not be ready for perhaps two weeks.

Love said that when they do come, they will include not only home heating oil but all of the "middle distillates" which include diesel fuel, kerosene and jet fuel.

Another administration proposal to bar switching from coal and other high-sulphur fuels to scarce low-sulphur fuels remained in the works and was expected to be adopted.

Charles J. DiBona, Love's deputy, said that action was delayed only by the need to issue an environmental impact statement, as has been done, and to review comments on it.

He said adoption of the noswitching rule would probably occur within a few weeks.

The mandatory allocation systems are based on the distribution pattern of the fuels during the past year, Love said.

However, the allocation systems include provisions for priority distribution to users in particular need, such as home heating in New England and the upper Midwest, where winters are severe.

Love said the attempt to distribute fuels fairly by voluntary cooperation from the petroleum industry was a failure and that mandatory allocations are "necessary and appropriate on a short-term basis."

But he said that fuel shortages are expected this winter "and perhaps over the next few years," hinting that "short term" may be a very flexible phrase.

The fuel allocation plans do not directly affect the prices of the products involved, which are still under the Phase 4 controls of the Cost of Living Council.

Love said the programs would be administered by the Interior Department.

He said some details of the heating oil program were not yet available but the decision to apply it was being announced "to let consumers and distributors know that positive action is being taken."

An administration source has told The Associated Press that President Nixon had actually approved heating oil allocation two weeks ago but delayed action while reviewing the situation to see just how extensive allocations must be.

The source said the allocations probably would not extend to gasoline and other non-oil products but probably would have to include the whole range of distillate oils, including diesel fuel, kerosene and jet fuel.

A statement accompanying the propane program warns that supplies this winter will "probably be insufficient to meet all market demands" and that "nonpriority users can expect to receive less than their full requirements and should plan accordingly."

The propane program assigns priority in the distribution of propane according to the following list, from highest priority to lowest: Residential use; agricultural production; food processing; "buildings primarily utilized for housing medical and nursing patients"; industrial vehicles or equipment used in enclosed places; fire-fighting, police and other essential services; petroleum production and transmission operations; commercial requirements consuming no more than 15,000 gallons per year; "peak shaving, that is, addition of propane to normal pipeline gas to fulfill high demands, limited to amounts contracted for or purchased for delivery between Sept. 1, 1972 and April 30, 1973."

Taxi assistance program for elderly is extended

By DICK JONES
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

The City Council extended the elderly-assistance taxi program until Nov. 1 at its meeting Monday night in an effort to buy time that will be used to work out revisions to the present program.

The trial program was begun July 2 and was originally estimated to cost $1,000 over a three-month period. Figures released for the months of July and August alone showed some $4,529 were spent to subsidize two local cab companies, City Cab and Yellow Cab, both owned by Ray Hatfield.

Albert Cusick, an accountant for the two cab companies, announced to the council that Hatfield was willing to lower his current base rate to 50 cents in hopes of alleviating some of the financial load to the city and elderly patrons. Both cab companies are currently charging a 55-cent base rate fee.

According to Cusick, a cut to 50 cents would represent an 8 per cent drop in Hatfield's gross profits. "We have suffered some losses on the number of passengers," Cusick said, "but we are making a respectable profit now."

Councilman Carl Franklin indicated in pre-council session that possibly some persons were "over-using" the assistance program. The city now pays half of the fee for Sedalians 60 or over.

"The people haven't saved that much," First Ward Councilman Don Broaddus contended. Jones also indicated that "the program really didn't get implemented like we wanted," saying possible modifications could be made to make the program more workable. "I would hope that this doesn't become another little beauracracy," Jones added.

The council will meet in special session Monday to discuss the taxi issue, it was learned.

The council also announced that all future meetings, including pre-council sessions, will be open to the public. This move was necessitated by the passage of the recent open-meetings or "sunshine" bill by the state Legislature. Previously, all citizens interested in the council actions have had to wait for the regular council meeting where key issues are often dispensed with quickly or are dealt with only formally.

Mayor Jones announced that pre-council meetings will continue to be held in a conference room on the second floor of the Municipal Building, unless there are a number of citizens in attendance. In this event, the pre-council sessions will be moved to the council chambers, he said.

Pre-council sessions have traditionally started at 6:30 p.m.

Councilman Carl Franklin presented a proposal for the hiring of five additional firemen in pre-council session. According to Franklin, the proposal was worked out by Fire Chief Willis Jabas who said the additional firemen would lower working hours by firefighters to around 51 hours per week.

Figures presented by Franklin showed the increase would cost $33,655 and would include two promotions in the department. No immediate action was taken by the council.

Later, the council voted to return to the Planning and Zoning Commission a request for an amendment to the city zoning ordinances which would allow drive-in banking establishments to operate under a C-1 zoning classification. The present city ordinance states that no drive-in or curb services will be permitted under the C-1 classification.

The council acted after hearing a report by George Berenyi of the Planning and Zoning Commission in which he contended that "no facts have been presented which can justify allowing them (banks) special treatment or privileges not shared by their counterparts in other businesses."

Discontent emerges at mobile home park

The City Council was brought into yet another controversy Monday night as about 50 residents of Heritage Village Mobile Home Park clashed with management of the park over alleged over-crowding and health and safety factors that have led to discontent.

Dr. James Houchens, 223 Colonial Lane, serving as a spokesman for the residents, said the mobile home park patrons were originally told that only 178 units would be located there, but with a change in management, he said, there are about 300 units at Heritage Village.

Clarifying this situation, Ellis Garner, Columbia, a co-owner of the mobile home park who purchased it this spring from E. W. Thompson, told The Democrat-Capital the park was designed with 303 "pads" or mobile home lots. He said there are currently 170 units in the park, with a projected maximum population of 250 mobile units.

"Some of the mobile home owners have been spoiled," he said. "They have been using up parts of adjoining lots that are not theirs. We purchased this park to make a profit and that's what we intend to do. We aren't deliberately crowding anybody, we are just beginning to occupy more of pads that have been vacant in the past."

Houchens, a chiropractor, also contended that mobile homes were being sold on the premises, which he claimed violated city ordinances. Mayor Jones, substantiated this claim, saying that after touring the grounds, he "did notice an apparent effort to sell mobile homes."

City building inspector Woodrow Garrison who, along with City License Inspector Bob Brown, is responsible for enforcing city zoning regulations, indicated Tuesday that many variables enter this particular situation.

Assuming that mobile homes are, indeed, being sold on the premises, this act may not be unlawful if it can be determined that mobile homes were sold on the premises before it was annexed into the city in 1968, Garrison said. This is true, he explained, because of a city ruling which holds that if a party is doing something in an area outside the city limits which violates a city statute, the party may not be forbidden from continuing that action after the area is annexed into the city.

However, Garrison continued, if it can be proved that mobile homes were not sold on the property prior to annexation, it would be illegal for any party to begin such action.

Meir meets Kreisky over transit camp

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Premier Golda Meir met face to face today with Chancellor Bruno Kreisky in her effort to persuade the Austrians to reverse their pledge to shut down a transit camp for emigrating Soviet Jews.

The 75-year-old Israeli leader talked with Kreisky for an hour and 45 minutes immediately after her arrival under tight security precautions. She left his office without comment.

The chancellor, himself a Jew, had told newsmen shortly before Mrs. Meir's arrival that while he was willing to listen to her entreaty, he would not go back on the promise to Arab guerrillas to shut down the camp.

Mrs. Meir told newsmen in Strasbourg, France, as she boarded her plane for Vienna that Kreisky's pledge to close the Schoenau Castle transit facility near Vienna means "the victims of terrorism" were being punished instead of the terrorists.

"I hope nothing will be done to make their path to Israel more difficult," she added.

Mrs. Meir was in Strasbourg for a speech to the Council of Europe's advisory assembly. She decided on the trip to Vienna following Kreisky's pledge given Saturday to obtain the freedom of an Austrian border guard and three Soviet Jews who had been kidnaped by two Palestinian terrorists.

Kreisky said he would explain to Mrs. Meir the "practical steps" his government plans to take so that emigration of Soviet Jews can continue via Austria. These have not been made public, but the chancellor declared:

"The decision of the Austrian government is of such a nature that it allows us to fulfill all our obligations as a humanitarian state in the future. Cancellation of the government's decision is unthinkable even under the hardest pressures."

Nixon planning his European trip soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, breaking the news to curious Italian tourists, says he plans to visit Western Europe "in about two or three months."

Nixon disclosed his approximate timetable Monday night as he emerged from a downtown restaurant after a day in which he also took a one-hour, 50-minute drive through suburban Northern Virginia and met with the president of the European Common Market.

At the White House today, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren would not make a specific prediction on when Nixon would visit Europe. He said the President "thinks he said in a few months" rather than "two or three months."

Warren also repeated that a date will not be set until after Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger returns from European consultations in mid-October.

Agnew prosecutors are pinched for time

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal prosecutors investigating Vice President Spiro T. Agnew are being pinched by the knowledge that a good portion of their case may be unuseable in as little as three weeks.

Agnew is under investigation by a special grand jury in Baltimore for possible violation of extortion, bribery, tax and conspiracy laws during his tenure as Maryland governor.

Under federal statutes of limitations, prosecution for bribery, extortion and conspiracy to commit either offense must be initiated within five years of the commission of the crime.

Agnew's lawyers may argue that the statutes, as they relate to the extortion and bribery allegations against the vice president, expire Oct. 22, it was learned Monday.

It was on Oct. 22, 1968, almost five years ago, that Agnew attended his last major session of the Maryland State Board of Public Works. At that meeting, seven major engineering contracts were awarded totaling more than $5.6 million.

All records relating to the awarding of those contracts have been subpoenaed by the Baltimore grand jury.

The statutes of limitations on tax evasion, tax fraud and conspiracy to commit those crimes is six years, so presumably the grand jury would have until some time next year to act on those allegations against Agnew.

Sources close to the case reported that if Agnew's lawyers claim Oct. 22 as the expiration date on the extortion and bribery statutes, the federal prosecutors may counter with a claim that the five years don't expire until Jan. 7, 1974, five years after Agnew formally resigned as governor, or even Jan. 20, 1974, five years after he formally became vice president.

Nonetheless, the prosecutors are moving quickly to present evidence to the grand jury. The grand jury is expected back in session later this week.

Meanwhile, Agnew returned from a long weekend on the West Coast to find his battle with the Justice Department once again joined.

Controversy over full-time mayor before council again

The full-time mayor controversy bolted into the spotlight once again at Monday evening's City Council meeting as Robert Eidson, a one-man crusader on behalf of full-time city government appeared with "several hundred" signatures on petitions favoring a full-time mayor.

Eidson was once again rebuked by Democratic members of the council headed by Third Ward Councilman Carl Franklin and his ward counterpart, Bob Wells.

"I don't intend to let something like this get by," Eidson said of the council's inaction on the full-time mayor plan. "You took the last liberty I had, the ballot, and threw it away."

Eidson explained Tuesday morning he didn't know exactly how many petition signatures he has thus far collected, but said the number in his possession is currently "over 500" and that "38 more petition blanks are still out in the field."

He did not formally present his petition collection to the council, Eidson said, because "they (the council) refused to tell me how many it would take to get them to take action. If they had given me a figure, I would have begun reading the names off last night but they didn't do it so I didn't present anything."

Eidson indicated that if the council continues in its refusal to provide him with a figure he will begin a referendum petition drive requesting the council to follow through on the wishes of the majority of voters on the full-time mayor issue as expressed in the April opinion ballot.

"I know there's a definite formula that would tell me what percentage of the registered voters would be needed to sign the petition," Eidson said. "If we do it by referendum ballot, the council will be forced to act."

Wells, speaking Monday night of Eidson's petitions, said he "didn't believe in pressure groups" and that there was "only a 2 per cent" spread in the April advisory ballot. "It was really only a 52 per cent margin," Wells said of the full-time mayor plurality.

Franklin supported Wells' contention, saying: "I counted the votes in the Third Ward and that's who I went with." Franklin has stated repeatedly that he is voting on the issue in the manner his ward did in the advisory vote.

A total of 469 persons in the Third Ward voted for a full-time mayor while 445 voted against the idea. Sixty-nine other persons in the Third Ward voted for a full-time administrator. Franklin and Wells are apparently combining figures of those voting against a full-time mayor and those voting for a full-time administrator to show that the ward voted against the full-time mayor plan.

The figures were made available to The Democrat-Capital by City Clerk Ralph Dedrick shortly after the April election.

Wells later defended his stand saying, "We've made as good a progress as anywhere around here, what's wrong with Sedalia?" Discussing the current mayor situation, Wells added, "We don't need a full-time mayor, the mayor's seat is one of the greatest honors this town can give."

Continuing, Wells said that in past years when Sedalia needed a full-time mayor, no funds were available. Moments later he said, "We don't have enough money now to have a full-time mayor."

Firefighters want meeting with court

The continuing dispute between the Pettis County Court and Firefighters Local 2228 continues to remain muddled despite pledges by union officials that the matter may be resolved finally by arbitration.

The controversy, entering its third week, involves the court's Sept. 12 firing of county firefighter Danny Taylor. The court has argued it was proper in firing Taylor. The union says Taylor was fired because he was a member of Local 2228.

Robert Vogler, a city fireman and state union official, pledged Tuesday that the union will initiate action to have the case brought before a local arbitration board if Western District Judge John Bluhm and Eastern District Judge E. L. Birdsong refuse to meet with local labor officials either Thursday or Friday night.

Vogler appeared before the court Tuesday morning and requested the meeting. The judges said they would attend no meeting unless advised to do so by their retained attorney in the matter, Earl Crawford. Crawford is scheduled to meet with the judges Wednesday morning to discuss the matter.

Last Thursday Joe McMahon, district vice president for the International Association of Firefighters, told the court he would initiate local arbitration procedings and also file an unfair labor practice petition with the State Board of Mediation in Jefferson City.

However, a mediation official in Jefferson City said no report had been filed at the office. Vogler explained that McMahon was scheduled to assist in a union matter in Iowa, citing a possible cause for the delay.

Vogler also explained that the union never intended to begin arbitration procedings unless the court refuses to continue to meet with the union.

"If they refuse to meet with us, we'll have no other choice but to go ahead with the (arbitration) petition," Vogler said.

If a majority of members at the county fire department sign a petition requesting that an arbitration board hear the dispute, then the case would be presented before a five-man board. Two of the board

Park Board votes expansion at Housel

The Sedalia Park Board voted unanimously to purchase a plot of land to expand facilities at Housel Park at its regular meeting Monday night at Convention Hall.

Vice President Ben Pummill reported that the land, about 150-feet-square, is located directly west of the existing park across Hurley Avenue and facing Howard Street on the south. The land is presently clear of buildings and contains some shade trees, he added.

Pummill said he had been approached by the landowner, Don Smith, who offered to sell the property for $2,000. Pummill said the Park Board also will have to pay $44 in back taxes on the land.

Pummill said as soon as the land is officially purchased, probably within a month, work will begin to convert the area into a "parking, picnic and recreation area." He said a "kiddie land" similar to the one at Liberty Park will be constructed at the site. He added that no other immediate improvements for Housel Park are planned.

Boby Beykirch, building committee chairman, reported that a contract to install guttering at the new concession facility at Centennial Park was necessary. He said guttering was inadvertently omitted from original specifications.

Beykirch also reported that a bid had been received for paving work in five areas at Centennial Park. The board decided to delay opening that bid until it had advertised for others.

Anticipated remodeling of Convention Hall, a $140,000 undertaking, drew some discussion. Parks Superintendent Jack Couts told the board the hall would not be useable for about one week when new composition flooring is being installed as part of the remodeling effort. Couts said after the meeting that construction might begin in about 60 days. Bid advertising, which must extend 30 days, has not yet been initiated, it was learned.

Park and Recreation Department bills totaling $5,392.24 were read and approved for payment.

Beykirch said $100 which was previously withheld from final payment to Wolf Construction Co. for paving work at Vermont Park was paid after investigation revealed no practical solution existed to correct the minor problem of water being held in small areas on the new surface.

Payment on a $1,193 bill to Queen City Electric Co. for lighting equipment at Vermont Park was withheld until the new facilities could be hooked up to existing circuits by Missouri Public Service Co.

Recreation Director Roscoe Righter reported that more than 250 women representing 18 teams had signed up for recreation program volleyball, which will begin soon. He also said the first decoupage class, held Monday night, had 32 participants and was too large for one instructor to teach properly.

Righter expressed concern that only 15 persons had signed up for a ceramics course, saying he had hoped for about 40 participants to justify the purchase of an adequate kiln.

The recreation director also said he had studied extending insurance coverage on recreation program facilities with City Counselor Bob Fritz and Charles C. Maggard Insurance Agency, Inc. Extending coverage would protect the department against possible lawsuits and would not pertain to medical coverage or hospitalization, it was learned.

Righter presented several requests for hall use by private groups as well as an out-of-city differentation fee for women volleyball participants.

Several upcoming recreation department activities were discussed and the board indicated preference toward holding a contest among city residents for naming the individual ball diamonds at Centennial Park.

It was confirmed that a park concessions contract between the board and Mrs. Virginia Cope was effective through 1974.

Day-care center opening is set back one week

Sedalia's newest day-care center, the Sunrise Day Care Center, 357 West Saline, has delayed its opening for a week, according to the director of the center, Mrs. Andrea Burns, Knob Noster.

According to Mrs. Burns, the opening was delayed due to an insufficient number of children enrolled in the center, but said that an adequate number of children will be enrolled to allow the facility to open on Monday, October 8, one week later than scheduled.

The center is located in a converted six-room apartment of the Anthony Buckner Apartments and is intended to aid working mothers living in the area of the apartments.

The center is licensed by the state to care for 15 children of pre-school age.

The cost to the mothers of the children enrolled is $3 per day.

The center will be staffed by the director, a teacher, two aids and a cook.

One-year probation for common assault

Floyd Wills, 39, 418 North Moniteau, was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail and then placed on probation for a year after he pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of common assault Tuesday in Magistrate Court.

Wills was originally charged with felonious assault, but the charge was reduced Tuesday by Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming.

Wills is charged with attacking his wife, Ida, with a knife Sept. 18 in a fight at Pettis and Moniteau. He was originally charged with disorderly conduct in Sedalia police court but that charge was dismissed after Fleming filed the felony charge against Wills.

Wills' wife reportedly suffered a cut on the hand as the result of the alleged incident.

Director of nurses at Bothwell named

Mrs. Irene Spears, assistant director of nurses at Bothwell Hospital, has been named the new permanent director of nurses, hospital administrator Don Feeback announced Tuesday.

Mrs. Spears, 1706 South Lamine, assumed her new duties Monday, Feeback said.

The hospital had been without a nursing director since Aug. 15 when Miss Miriam Niday resigned.

Mrs. Spears has worked in supervisory positions at the hospital for 18 years, Feeback said.

had approved the amendment last week with only one dissenting vote, that being Berenyi's. Monday's events have the result of reversing at least temporarily the commission's decision. The commission will give further consideration to the proposal at their next meeting, it was learned.

The council also approved recommendations of the Planning and Zoning Commissions which included a zone classification change for lots in the 500 block of West Broadway owned by Dr. J. W. Bryden. Also approved were zoning requests by John Wolf, 1420 South Vermont, and Marvin Carter, 500 West Johnson.

The council also raised the salary of Dick Battles, Sedalia's counselor on problem drinking, by $25 per month.

Councilman Jesse Robinson was absent.

Defendants prevail in malpractice suit

A Pettis County Circuit Court jury deliberated less than two hours Monday afternoon before handing down a verdict which legally absolved three doctors of negligence in a two-count, $2.4 million malpractice suit in Circuit Court.

The defendants, Dr. R. A. Osbourn, Dr. James Ritterbusch and Dr. Fred Handler, were named in the suit filed by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Tussey, Fulton, who contended that Mrs. Tussey underwent treatment by the defendants and as a result suffered complications including five subsequent operations and extended hospitalization.

In the original and subsequent amended petitions, the Tusseys had sought $4.8 million by four counts of alleged negligence. But court records indicated Tuesday that that amount was reduced by lawyers in a pretrial conference, and two of the four counts of the petition were dropped.

Nine members of the jury signed the verdict in favor of the defendants. The trial lasted six days.

Attorneys for the defense listed in their final arguments that "the evidence shows the defendants used their best judgment," that evidence "most favorable to the plaintiff shows, at most, that there is room for an honest difference of opinions among competent physicians," and that "evidence shows that pathologists ... agree with the findings of this defendant" (Dr. Handler).

Handler is a pathologist from Jefferson City. Osbourn and Ritterbusch are from Fulton. The trial was moved to Pettis County on a change of venue from Cole County. Judge Phil H. Cook of the 15th Judicial Circuit in Lafayette County presided.

A brief presented by attorneys for Drs. Osbourn and Ritterbusch stated that "the evidence shows that the defendants stand charged only with acts or omissions on which medical experts differ and which are in the realm of judgment and discretion for which the defendants are not libel."

Listed among the Tussey woman's contentions were an alleged delay in carrying out surgical procedures involving what eventually became a severe gynecological disorder. The plaintiff also contended that Osbourn and Ritterbusch failed to do a biopsy, complete hysterectomy, and colostomy.

The plaintiffs charged Handler with "incorrectly reading the pap smear test." Mrs. Tussey was originally operated on Dec. 27, 1968. After a continued decline in her condition under the services of Osbourn, a general practitioner, and Ritterbusch, a surgeon, she went to the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., where it was found she had developed cancer.

Count four of the suit alleged that the defendants "deliberately and fraudulently concealed the fact that she (Mrs. Tussey) had had ... a cancerous growth."

Eleven attorneys were involved in the trial with seven being employed by the three defendants.

members would be chosen from a list prepared by the firefighters, two from the court and the fifth member would be picked by the other four.

Any decision the arbitration board would reach would be nonbinding.

Both Birdsong and Bluhm Tuesday reaffirmed their earlier statements on the matter. "We think we're right (in firing Taylor) . . ." Bluhm said. Birdsong said the judges were referring any new developments in the dispute to Crawford. The court has twice turned down union demands that the court rehire Taylor.

Vogler said the union will "exhaust everything" to get the judges to rescind their decision.

comment regarding whether or not he had sold mobile homes at the park premises before it was annexed to the city.

City Counselor Robert Fritz cited this same principle in informing the protestors that Garner was not bound by the city's new ordinance governing mobile homes and parks because the Heritage Village park was established and annexed before the law took effect in 1971.

Houchens asked the council to seek an attorney general's opinion in the dispute and termed the city ordinance which went into effect in 1971 "worthless."

"We will pursue these legal questions further," Mayor Jones said.

Jones indicated that he, or members of the council, would meet soon with both parties in the dispute in an effort to work out a solution to the problem.

One of the chief complainers, Mrs. H. M. Frederickson, 213 Waterbury Ridge, says she was given last week a 30-day notice to evict her property "because I was circulating a petition against the owners and their policies."

Her eviction notice stated that she was being ordered to move because she allowed a car to be parked on her lawn and because the metal stripping at the base of her mobile home was loose.

"They're just out to get me and are making excuses to do it by being picky," Mrs. Frederickson said.

Defending his actions, Garner said the reasons were "very valid" and needed no real defense. "I can't let the mobile home owners, my tenants, tell me how to run my place. Im operating fairly and I challenge anyone to prove differently."

Accident victim off 'critical' list

One of two men taken to Bothwell Hospital following a head-on collision between a car and pick-up truck Friday evening has been removed from the critical list but is still listed in "serious" condition, according to a hospital spokesman Tuesday morning.

Robert P. Klein, 27, Independence, driver of the pick-up, was taken off the critical list about 3:40 p.m. Monday and removed from the hospital's intensive care unit. Klein underwent surgery over the weekend to treat internal injuries he sustained in the accident as well as fractures to his pelvis, right hip and right arm.

Billy G. Whaler, 26, 5 Burton Drive, was still listed as "critical" Tuesday morning.

Whaler, who did not undergo surgery, suffered multiple fractures of the ribs, a fractured left arm and multiple lacerations.

The accident occurred about 9 p.m. Friday when the vehicles collided on Highway 52, about one-half mile east of Route B near Cole Camp.

Board seeks reversal of licensing decision

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Board of Healing Arts filed suit Monday seeking to reverse a decision that could lead to the renewal of a medical license for Bernard Finch.

A Sept. 24 ruling by the Administrative Hearing Commission said Finch, who served 12 years on a California murder conviction, should be allowed to take the next scheduled examination for licensing as a physician.

The action filed Monday in Cole County Circuit Court asks that the commission decision be ruled invalid because the commission overstepped its authority in making an "arbitrary, unreasonable and not substantiated" ruling.

CMSU enrollment decrease indicated

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP) — This fall's enrollment figures at Central Missouri State University indicate a decrease of about 6 per cent from last fall, Dr. Tom Edmunds, vice-president for student affairs said today.

Edmunds said 7,806 students enrolled on the Warrensburg campus compared with 8,317 in 1972. He said the figures do not include off-campus continuing education classes.

Several break-ins reported

Police are currently investigating several break-ins and attempted burglaries occurring in Sedalia recently.

Vandals broke into the garage of Glen Barry, 520 North Grand, sometime late Sunday night or early Monday morning, it was reported.

Barry told police that the vandals apparently used a pitchfork to pry the wood covering from a back window of the garage. After entering the building the vandals damaged three TV sets with a combined value of $160, broke a box of dishes and scattered clothing around the garage. According to the police report there was apparently nothing removed from the garage.

Thieves broke into KMOS-TV, 2100 West Broadway, sometime during the night Sunday and made off with $6 in change from a small change box in the building.

Entry to the building was apparently made by forcing open a door on the northeast side. Damage to the door was estimated at $15.

Katie Mae Green, 811 Crescent Drive, told police that someone broke into her home on Sept. 27 and made off with an undetermined amount in old coins, silver dollars, half-dollars and a Winston Churchill collector's coin.

Mrs. Green told police that she left home about 12:30 p.m. Thursday and when she returned several hours later she found that her home had been entered. The kitchen door was found open and a screen door at the rear of the house was cut.

Jim Hieronymous, owner of the Horseshoe Bar, Fifth and Engineer, told police that someone apparently tried to break into the business sometime Sunday.

Hieronymous told police that he found pry marks on the front door of the building and the lock, valued at $20 had been damaged. There was no apparent entry to the building.

In other police news, more than $900 in car parts were taken from a car belonging to Pete White, 116 Colonial Lane, while it was parked at Broadway Texaco, 2602 West Broadway, between Sept. 25 and 6:30 a.m. Monday.

White, an employe at the station, told police that two wheels, two tires, one carburetor and manifold, one carburetor shaft, an oil pan and other assorted car parts valued at $910 were taken.

Police theorized that entry was gained to the car through a vent window, with the hood lock broken by a chisel-type instrument.

In other police news, a minibike reported stolen recently from the 1900 block of South Osage by Walter Clark, 1500 South Center, was recovered at 11:45 a.m. Monday at 1803 South Osage. The vehicle was found in the back yard by the resident at that address and was partially stripped.

Controversy

Mayor Jones later termed this statement "poppycock" and "a groundless argument." A salary for such a position could easily be worked into next year's city budget, Jones said.

Fourth Ward Democrat Lee Garrison told Eidson at the well-attended meeting that he had tried to move on the controversy. Garrison's mayor proposal did not receive a second at the last council meeting.

In a final note on the present impasse the council has reached, Franklin commented that "much was accomplished under the previous Democratic council, but now I just don't know what has happened."

"Maybe that's what happens when you go against the people's wishes," Jones countered.

Petite cupcakes . . .
. . . specially made

For watching cholesterol

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Now that so many of us need to watch our cholesterol intake, we're delighted to offer you this recipe for special Petite Cupcakes. They're made with egg whites (the cholesterol is in the egg yolk), skim milk (the cholesterol is in the butterfat) and corn oil (low in saturated fats and one of our best sources of polyunsaturates). These cupcakes taste best fresh from the oven — warm or cold; so plan to serve them shortly after baking.

PETITE CUPCAKES

1¼ cups sifted cake flour
¼ cup sugar
1½ teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 egg whites
one-third cup sugar
¼ cup corn oil
½ cup skim milk
½ teaspoon vanilla

Grease three 12-cup muffin pans (each cup 1¾ by 1 inch) leaving 6 cups ungreased. If working with only two pans, cover and hold leftover batter in refrigerator until pan is free to use.

Into large bowl of electric mixer sift together the flour, ¼ cup sugar, baking powder and salt.

In small bowl of electric mixer beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Gradually beat in the 1-3rd cup sugar until mixture forms stiff peaks.

Make well in center of flour mixture; add corn oil and 1-3rd cup of the skim milk. Beat until batter is smooth. Beat in remaining milk and vanila. Gently fold in (do not stir) the beaten egg whites. Turn into prepared muffin pans. Half-fill the ungreased cups (in which there will be no batter) with water.

Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center of a cupcake comes out clean — 30 minutes. Cool a few minutes and remove from pans to wire racks. Serve warm or cooled completely — best served fresh. If desired, sprinkle lightly with confectioners' sugar.

Makes 30.

Newcomers here concerned with housing

By KARLA WALTERS
Women's Editor

Housing is the number one issue with newcomers to Sedalia, according to a sampling of housewives whose families have moved here this summer.

And renting is the number one problem. Mr. and Mrs. John Brockman, who are renting the house at 2309 East 12th, are pleased with the house, but not with the landlord: "The plumbing is stopped up," Mrs. Brockman said. "And we know the landlord knew when he rented. He hasn't done the painting, either."

Mr. and Mrs. Benning Wentworth, 1523 Honeysuckle, are satisfied with their house, and with their landlord — he furnished materials for improvements — but they were concerned about finding a place. "Renting is a difficult thing to do."

Some families are renting until they find a home to buy. Mrs. Jerry Martin, Somerset Apartments, says, "This apartment is nice, except I can't have my own washer and dryer. We have furnishings stored. It was impossible to find a house rental. We thought we were going to be forced to buy."

Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Seim rented until their house came on the market. "It really didn't take too long," she says.

Others were less pleased. Mrs. Wyman Bailey, 700 West Sixth, says, "There's not a good selection. Houses seem to be here today, gone tomorrow. My husband would look at houses, and they'd be gone by the time I got there from out of town."

The main complaints about food buying in Sedalia, according to the survey of newcomers, were the prices. "But that's not fair," to complain about, the women said. "Fine" and "adequate" were frequent comments about local stores.

"I was surprised at the (large) number of grocery stores here," Mrs. Gerry Seim said.

One of the reasons Mrs. William Jackson's family moved to Sedalia is the proximity of Whiteman AFB's food store, since they are retired military.

Few of those interviewed had had time to shop extensively for clothing, but several said they would shop either in St. Louis, Kansas City or from catalogs rather than in Sedalia. Another said "Anything we've needed, we've been able to find." Mrs. Seim said she had been pleased with finding the drapery material she wanted quickly, while Mrs. Jackson said, "I found decorating supplies not up to my expectations."

None of those contacted had spent much time at Sedalia's theaters since arriving here. Most expressed disappointment that there weren't more G-rated movies, though Mrs. Martin said, "I think the theaters did very well this summer in getting children's movies."

Local churches had contacted nearly everyone interviewed. Some newcomers were telephoned by several churches and some received calls from pastors after they had attended services. Mrs. Brockman, who moved here from Hannibal, said, however, "The churches haven't contacted us the way they did there."

The concensus was that Sedalia is a friendly town. Though most of the newcomers had not had time to make any real friendships, Mrs. Lyra Rupprecht, 1604 Heck, says, "People I've met treat me as though they've known me all my life."

The Wentworths have lived in Fort Worth and Columbia, and Mrs. Wentworth says, "Sedalia really surpasses the other two, especially in friendliness. Even in the stores and shopping centers, if I happen to mention we're new, they seem to take an interest."

"We came from a smaller town, Potosi, Mo., (population, 3,800)," Mrs. Martin says, "and we think it's more friendly here than there. Even to meet people on the street: If you smile, you get a response."

About town

Mr. and Mrs. Angus M. Cameron, Somerville, Mass., are visiting friends and relatives of Mrs. (Juanita Wills) Cameron here. The Camerons left Sedalia in August, 1941. Cameron retired after 31 years as a machinist with the Boston Naval Shipyard. While here they are staying with Mrs. Hugh Wills, 1712 East Seventh, aunt of Mrs. Cameron.

Canned fruit cocktail was first packed as a practical way to combine fruits that ripened in the same harvest period.

Wants new method for wall hangings

By POLLY CRAMER
Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — Can someone tell me how to hang pictures on plastered walls without using nails? I have tried those stick-on hangers but they came loose after a few weeks. — MARGARET

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve concerns some of the problems a college student may encounter when looking for a job. Some prospective employers may say we are overtrained for a minimum wage job, but on the other hand there are those who say we do not have the experience for a higher paying position. The result is that many of us are forced to look for jobs out of our fields (of course, without experience) or we remain overtrained, inexperienced and UNEMPLOYED. — MARCIA

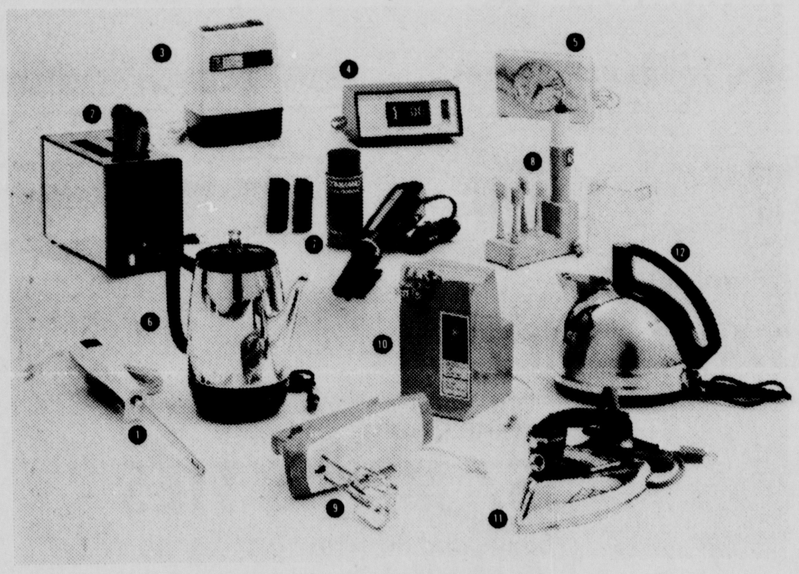

DEAR POLLY — I have an answer for Ilssy who wants to keep her little girl's first communion dress white. I work in a dry cleaning shop and, to keep our customers' wedding dresses from yellowing, we pack them in nice boxes that have been lined with blue tissue paper. We carefully fold each dress with more of the blue paper making sure it is well covered. The box is tightly sealed with package tape and the dress should be good as new when the box is reopened. — MARY W.

DEAR POLLY — To keep the refrigerator free from fingerprints I hang a small terry towel with a button or snaps to fasten it to the handle. Both children and adults take hold of the towel while opening the door. — SISTER S.

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Diabetic should not drink alcohol

Dear Dr. Lamb — Would you answer a couple of questions for us diabetics? In the diet, is one gram of protein or fat converted into the same quantity of blood sugar as one gram of carbohydrates? If a mild diabetic uses alcohol, and specifically if he ingests 10 or 20 ounces of vodka daily, will his blood sugar content increase?

Dear Reader — A gram of digestible carbohydrate such as simple table sugar is totally converted to blood glucose (often called blood sugar), and a gram of table sugar produces about 3.9 calories in the body. Not all carbohydrates produce the same number of calories. A gram of carbohydrate from mature bean seeds may produce a little more than four calories, and carbohydrate from lemons or limes only 2.5 calories.

Some amino acids from protein can be converted to blood glucose. These can be used to raise the blood sugar. If a person has no carbohydrates in the diet, or is starving, amino acids from muscle protein can be used to form more blood glucose and thereby prevent shock, convulsions, and even death from extreme low blood sugar. Other amino acids are converted to products that can be converted to fat but not to glucose. These are the ketogenic amino acids. Both kinds of amino acids can be used for energy if there are not enough food sources for energy otherwise. Generally 100 grams of mixed portein can form 60 grams of glucose.

Since carbohydrates and fat should be used for energy and thereby spare the body the necessity to use its precious proteins for energy, they are sometimes spoken of as having protein sparing action.

Fats are composed of fatty acids and glycerol. The latter represents a very small part of the calorie or chemical part of the fat particle. The glycerol can be converted to blood glucose, but it won't make much of a contribution. The fatty acids, where the real energy level is located, cannot be converted to blood glucose. The problem with eating too much fat for a diabetic is that it tends to increase the blood fat and cholesterol levels and this in turn increases the likelihood of heart and vascular disease (heart attacks, strokes, gangrene of the foot) which is already a problem in diabetics. Also, too many fatty acids lead to excess formation of ketones or acetone which can upset the body chemistry and are involved in producing diabetic acidosis and coma.

Alcohol, first of all, does provide a lot of calories. If you are regulated to a given amount of insulin for a particular diet, remember it changes your calorie intake. Apparently it is not converted to glucose. It can be converted to fat in normal people, and often is in the person who drinks too much. In the absence of insulin it tends to go the metabolic energy route of fats, thus producing more ketone bodies. Besides that, it is potentially damaging to the liver — which also is a problem for diabetics anyway.

I don't think anyone who needs insulin should be drinking alcohol, and if they must have an occasional drink, that should be limited to one jigger of an alcoholic beverage. In no case could I recommend 10 to 20 ounces of vodka a day to anybody, much less a diabetic requiring insulin.

Health care costs outpace cost of living

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In 1950 national expenditures on health care, a conglomerate category that includes everything from the cost of building hospitals to curing simple headaches averaged $78.35 per person.

By 1972 that figure had quintupled to $394.16, as health care costs outpaced the cost of living and any of the components that make up the cost of living.

After such a leap many Americans believed the increase would slow, one of the reasons being that the pitifully inadequate wages paid to hospital service personnel in the 1950s were now considered more nearly adequate in the 1970s.

Moreover, the federal government was cracking down on the advertising claims of patent medicine makers and pressures were also being exerted to reduce the prices of prescription pharmaceuticals.

In addition, Blue Cross and Blue Shield and other medical and hospital insurance plans were being encouraged to actively resist higher prices rather than merely paying out whatever bills were submitted.

Competition between hospitals was also being discouraged and ways to cooperate were being sought. Why should two hospitals in an area each have a $10,000 piece of equipment when one would suffice?

But if you have faith in the projections of the Conference Board, and many businessmen and educators rely upon them heavily, prices are going to rise a lot more — nearly doubling by 1980.

The board projects national outlays on research, construction and personal health care at $757.02 per capita in 1980, which means that in all liklihood good health will remain a luxury to many.

These high prices aren't all to be attributed to the medical profession and its ancillary occupations, trades and businesses, because huge increases in building and technology costs contribute heavily.

The major portion of the increase nevertheless remains a strictly medical phenomenon. The study shows that medical care prices rose at an average annual rate of 3.9 per cent in the '50s, 4.7 in the '60s and 6.5 in 1971.

Consumer goods prices for the same periods rose 2.1 per cent, 2.7 per cent and 4.3 per cent, respectively.

The board attributed the increases to "money spent on achieving medical advances which require the development of new, expensive medical facilities and treatment techniques."

It said increased in-hospital medical care has also contributed to the rise. Other sources say this tendency to bed down a patient who could be treated as an ambulatory or outpatient has been one of the major faults and chief expenses in hospital administration.

—The cost of hospital care, the researchers determined, has risen at an average of 8.5 per cent a year for the past two decades, and since 1966 the rates has been nearly 14 per cent a year.

In explanation, the board noted that between 1950 and 1970 the number of full-time hospital personnel providing a day's care for a patient rose from 1.7 to 3.

It added that "the introduction of highly complex, potentially life-saving machinery, such as intensive care units and open-heart surgery equipment, has also caused hospital prices to increase."

In the meantime, life expectancy, which rose from 47.3 years in 1900 to 68.2 years in 1950, rose only 2.6 from 1950 to 1970, insurance industry figures show.

Elks offering scholarships for students

Area students might be recipients in the 1973 Most Valuable Student competition sponsored by the Elks National Foundation in conjunction with the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, according to Sedalia Exalted Rule Ben Bell.

A total of 142 scholarships will be offered, totalling $110,000. The scholarships range from $700 to $1,500, Bell said, with boys and girls competing separately.

This is the 45th consecutive year the Foundation has offered assistance for exceptionally talented, but needy, students, Bell said. Applicants must be high school seniors endorsed by a non-relative and are considered for merit on citizenship, personality, leadership, perseverance, resourcefulness, patriotism, general worthiness and financial need, Bell explained.

He said application forms could be obtained from William Nolan, 1805 South Beacon, 826-7492. Completed forms must be returned by Nov. 8.

Ecuador, with an estimated 11,000 square miles, is about the size of Nevada.

Snub by curators

The Board of Curators of the University of Missouri has lost no time in thumbing its nose at the state's new sunshine bill, which became law Friday.

Board President Irvin Fane announced that the curators will continue to hold closed sessions prior to their regular meetings (which are "open" to the press via closed circuit television) and that committees of the board will still meet in secret.

Fane, an attorney, said all of this is in keeping with the law, since the board always takes final action on matters in open session.

The president should take another look at the law: It clearly states that all meetings of public bodies in which public business is even "discussed" shall be open. There remain, of course, legitimate grounds for going into executive session, but these apparently are not what Mr. Fane is talking about.

As a custodian of tens of millions of dollars of the taxpayers' money, the University of Missouri should be fully accountable to the people for each action and decision. This can only be assured through public access to the meetings of the Board of Curators.

If the board persists in its closed-door policy, then the courts should be asked to interpret the law to its edification.

Havoc in St. Louis

The St. Louis newspaper strike is grinding into its 43rd day with no sign of a settlement. Both of the city's papers, the Post-Dispatch and the Globe-Democrat, have been shut down by the walkout.

The strike was called when the Post (which prints the Globe) announced that some of the 32 Teamster dockhand positions at its new plant would be eliminated over the years by attrition. The Teamsters insist on keeping the jobs, although automated equipment has made them obsolete.

Other unions honored the strike, and some 2,000 employes of both papers are off the job. More than 600,000 subscribers remain without their papers, advertisers are left with no satisfactory alternative to marketing their goods and services, and much of the local news that is crucial to Missouri's largest metropolitan area goes unreported.

It is intolerable that a handful of workers can play such havoc with the public welfare.

The overture

A conservative view

The big economic picture

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — Nothing much has been heard in recent months of the Burke-Hartke bill, more precisely known as the Foreign Trade and Investment Act. The proposal has vanished like so much grist in the mills of the House Ways and Means Committee, which is grinding out a single bill covering many aspects of foreign trade.

Kilpatrick

The protectionist attitudes embraced in Burke-Hartke have not vanished at all. The bill, sponsored by Rep. James A. Burke of Massachusetts and Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana, continues to draw the enthusiastic support of the AFL-CIO and of other pressure groups opposed to multinational corporations. These spokesmen can be counted on to renew their clamor when the package bill makes it appearance this month.

A brochure published by the Industrial Union Department of the AFL-CIO argues stridently, in great splashes of red ink, that the multinational corporation is "unfair to Americans jobs." Such a corporation, with capital investments around the world, is a "modern-day dinosaur which eats the jobs of American workers." The charge is made that the foreign plants "produce goods which compete unfairly with American-made products."

The AFL-CIO arguments have been ably refuted recently by two spokesmen for American industry, William A. Naumann of Caterpillar Tractor and Walter E. Schirmer, chairman of Clark Equipment Co. Because the unions' position has been widely publicized by such articulate advocates as Burke and Hartke, the other side of the story deserves a fair shake.

Naumann spoke last week at a conference of the Cast Metals Federation, representing several hundred iron and steel foundries. He bluntly acknowledged their fear that when a company such as Caterpillar builds a foreign plant, and begins to buy castings and other production materials abroad, domestic foundries are hurt. He offered convincing evidence that precisely the opposite is true.

Caterpillar has 11 plants abroad. In every case, Naumann said, Caterpillar's exports to the host nation have increased as a consequence of establishing the factory. The foreign plants not only require substantial amounts of U.S. parts and components for foreign assemblies; more significantly, he said, these plants "help us increase sales of our whole product line, including machines made only in the U.S."

Between 1950 and 1972, Caterpillar's exports grew from $93 million to $800 million. In this same period, its purchases from domestic suppliers rose from $188 million to more than one billion dollars. By Naumann's estimate, Caterpillar's exports and foreign earnings in the past 10 years not only have produced a net inflow of $5.2 billion, but also have created 20,000 domestic jobs.

Schirmer, who spoke in July at Duquesne University, offers the same affirmative evidence. His company, best known for its fork-lift trucks, has invested $122 million in plants in 23 nations, most notably in Brazil. Far from "exporting jobs," as the AFL-CIO contends, the foreign plants create jobs here at home. The Clark plants themselves become, in effect, markets for Clark components. The company's export business has soared from $5 million in 1950 to $96 million last year. The growth has created 2,800 jobs that otherwise would not exist.

The Burke-Hartke approach, by imposing punitive taxes on the multinational corporations and requiring import quotas, would stifle this healthy expansion. In theory, the protectionists would "keep jobs at home." In point of fact, their small-bore thinking would kill off the jobs of thousands of industrial workers, most of them union members, whose livelihood depends on foreign trade. Maybe this makes sense to George Meany, but it is hard to see how it makes sense to anyone who understands the parable of the goose that laid the golden egg.

Merry-go-round

Hughes' $100,000: donation or bribe?

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — A representative of billionaire Howard Hughes, Richard Danner, has told Senate Watergate investigators that he obtained an antitrust waiver in 1970 from then-Attorney General John Mitchell. This coincided closely, Danner admitted, with his delivery of $100,000 in gambling money to President Nixon's friend, Bebe Rebozo.

Danner insisted, however, that Mitchell was unaware of the contribution and, therefore, that the favorable antitrust action was not a quid pro quo for the money.

Danner said he had three conversations with Mitchell about Hughes' desire to purchase the Dunes hotel-casino in Las Vegas. On the last occasion, Danner called upon Mitchell at the Justice Department and was given clearance to go ahead with the Dunes acquisition.

This occurred, to the best of Danner's recollection, in August or September of 1970. A few weeks earlier, on July 3, 1970, according to Danner's records, he handed $50,000 in $100 bills to Rebozo at President Nixon's San Clemente estate.

Danner had no record of the exact time he delivered the additional $50,000 installment. He originally told the Internal Revenue Service that he had turned over the cash to Rebozo at the President's Key Biscayne estate in August, 1969. But Danner explained to the Watergate investigators that he later gave the IRS an amended statement, suggesting it was possible the delivery could have occurred in August, 1970.

Before the $100,000 changed hands, the Justice Department had blocked Hughes from purchasing another Las Vegas hotel-casino, the Stardust, on antitrust grounds. But the Justice Department changed its attitude in 1970 when Mitchell promised, according to Danner, not to obstruct the expansion of Hughes' gambling empire.

The Senate sleuths questioned Danner this past August 30 in his offices at the Sands hotel-casino in Las Vegas. Throughout the secret interview, he insisted that the two $50,000 payments were intended as campaign contributions.

President Nixon, of course, wasn't campaigning for office at the time the money was delivered, but Danner said the President was expected to use the money to help his favorite candidates in the 1970 congressional races.

Danner told the investigators that the question of a campaign contribution was first brought up with Rebozo in 1968. Rebozo broke off the discussion, however, when he learned that the President's brother, Donald Nixon, was involved in arranging a Hughes contribution. When Don Nixon's name came up, recounted Danner, Rebozo said to "drop it, forget it."

A White House spokesman denied that the President had ever received the $100,000 offering, and friends of Rebozo told us that no campaign money had been diverted into personal channels.

But the transaction underlies how difficult it is becoming to distinguish between a campaign contribution and an outright bribe.

ROOSEVELT INVESTIGATION: An indignant Elliott Roosevelt, son of the late President, has flown in from Portugal to answer charges before the Senate later this week that he has been consorting with racketeers.

One of them, Louis Mastriana, testified that Roosevelt and a mobster "offered me $100,000 to kill, to whack (Bahamian Prime Minister Lynden O. Pindling). They expected me to kill him."

Another convicted stock swindler, Patsy A. Lepera, has told Senate investigator that he used Roosevelt to pass stolen securities on at least three different occasions. Checking on his story, the investigators have established that Roosevelt and Lepera traveled to New York and Canada together.

The investigators have also interviewed witnesses who swear that Roosevelt has associated with a number of other stock swindlers, including the notorious Noe brothers, Clifford and Paul, who are now in prison.

Roosevelt is outraged over the charges. He has acknowledged privately that his famous name has attracted some unsavory characters who have tried to use him. But in the words of his attorney, "Roosevelt has never knowingly transferred stolen securities." The story of the assassination plot, the attorney told us, is "ridiculous."

Meanwhile, the witness who testified about the assassination plot has been living it up in a posh Washington area apartment for the past 17 months at the Justice Department's expense. Mastriana is supposed to be serving an eight-year term in the federal penitentiary at Texarkana, Tex. But we tracked him down to a $275 apartment where he has been attending parties, socializing at the swimming pool and otherwise living flamboyantly.

The Justice Department confirmed that it has been paying Mastriana's bills, because he has been cooperating with a federal investigation of the stock swindling racket. He is kept under 24-hour protection by federal marshals. For security reasons, we agreed not to identify the apartment nor to divulge his assumed name.

FOOTNOTE: Mastriana's testimony about Roosevelt was solicited by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill. Senate Investigations Chairman Henry Jackson, D-Wash., had not intended to air the charges until Roosevelt had been given full opportunity to respond.

Ups and downs

Ounce for ounce, hummingbirds outmatch every other species of bird — and man, too — in several respects. Only a hummer can hover indefinitely in mid-air, or fly backward and sideways. It gets power on both the upbeat and downbeat of the wings, while other species obtain flying power only on the downbeat. Its wings beat 50 times a second while hovering.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Automatic transmissions were installed in 90.5 per cent of all U.S. 1972 model cars; 68.5 per cent of the cars had air conditioners. Environmental officials have revealed the air conditioning increases gasoline consumption by about 10-20 per cent depending on the temperature and driving speed. The World Almanac says. Automatics use about 7 per cent more fuel than manual transmission.

Business is booming in legal futures

WASHINGTON — This has probably been the greatest year in history for criminal lawyers. Thanks to the Watergate fallout, every law firm in this city is now on a 24-hour, seven-day week schedule. Whereas most law offices were sedate, quiet places, they now resemble brokerage offices with everyone screaming into the phones.

Buchwald

I stopped in to see a friend of mine who works for one of the top criminal law firms in Washington. He had his coat off, his shirt open at the collar, his tie askew and he was writing furiously on a yellow pad. He motioned for me to sit down. Then he yelled into the phone, "Right. I got you. Forty-three indictments in Jersey. We'll take them. Tell them to put the money in the bank." He hung up.

"Boy, what a day," he told me. "I just . . ." The phone rang.

"Yeah . . . yeah . . . we take perjury. How many cases you got? . . . 15 . . . grand jury or Senate? . . . both . . . okay . . . send them over. No, not today . . . We can't see them for two weeks . . . You can't wait that long? . . . So get yourself another lawyer." He hung up.

"You really must be doing well to turn away business."

"Every time someone gets indicted he wants to see his lawyer RIGHT AWAY. They'll call back. Most law firms have a one-month waiting list for perjurers."

My friend's secretary came in. "Mr. McIntosh, we have a mayor outside who is being indicted for income tax evasion."

"Tell him we don't take mayors any more. You have to be either a president of a corporation or a high official of the administration."

A law partner rushed in. "We've been offered 300 bribery cases in Baltimore County. Should we take them?"

"Take 200," my friend shouted. "We can't put all our eggs in bribery."

"What price should I quote?"

"One hundred thousand a case in advance. $200,000 before we go to trial. Vote fraud is $50,000 extra."

"Wow," I said, "you people are really raking in the money."

"Watergate's been very good to us," my friend said. "You know, before Watergate all we got were a lot of priests and students being indicted by the government. Most of them didn't have a dime. But now you're getting a much higher class of defendant. They come from the best families, they went to the best schools and they all have short hair. Most of the people being indicted these days are lawyers, so you don't have to explain things to them twice. I tell you it's a pleasure doing business with them."

The phone rang. He picked it up. "Oh hi, Buzz. You offering us 43 kickback cases in New York? Sure, we'll take them if your law firm doesn't want them . . . I see you have 63 judges coming up for trial . . . Look, while I have you on the phone, would you take 33 wiretapping trials in Los Angeles? We just don't have the troops to send to L.A. . . . Thanks a lot . . . ."

The secretary came back in. "There's a delegation of ex-White House aides to see you. They say it's very important."

"Send them to the White House department down on the second floor."

Another law partner came in. "You interested in a former attorney general and a former secretary of commerce?"

"Good grief," my friend said in exasperation. "I've only got two hands."

The phone buzzed. He picked it up. "Oh, yes sir, Mr. Vice President. Uh, uh . . . uh . . uh . . Yes I've been reading about it in the newspapers . . . I see . . . well we usually don't handle vice presidents, but we might make an exception in your case . . . now could you start at the beginning . . . ."

Mr. H. W. Kerr, water commissioner, is now engaged in making a diagram of the city, showing the location of its water mains, fire hydrants, etc. There are now twenty-five hydrants located. The building up of the city in all directions will soon call for an extension of pipes and additional hydrants.

Life on Mars?

The question of life on Mars is unsolved. Nothing discovered by the Mariner missions excludes the possibility. Two Viking landers may provide a definitive answer in 1976. Once eased to the planet's surface, they will scoop up Martian soil with ten-foot retractable arms. Inside the spacecraft, miniature laboratories will analyze the samples; dish antennas will then transmit the findings back to earth.

But caused price hikes...

Experts claim grain exports eased world tensions

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Massive American grain exports. the key to today's high food prices. were a factor in diplomacy which eased world tensions and helped get the United States out of the Vietnam war. according to administration experts.

The Russians got the wheat at bargain prices. U.S. subsidies on the sales. and devaluation of the dollar. meant the Russians paid an effective price of $1.48 a bushel for wheat which was costing American buyers $2.10 by the fall of 1972.

And that meant high prices for the U.S. consumer. As the size of the Soviet purchases became known last year. the price of grain soared. reaching over $5 a bushel for wheat by the summer of 1973. So did the cost of everything produced from wheat and feed grains. from bread to beefsteak.

The White House says American food was an important part of President Nixon's negotiations with the Soviet Union and China last year. and thus contributed indirectly to the war settlement.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said in an interview that a desire for American food exports led the Russians and Chinese to use their influence on this country's behalf and show restraint in such delicate areas as Southeast Asia and the Middle East.

"I can't get specific," Butz said. "but they needed this. we had it. and they paid a price to get it. And the price was a move toward world peace."

The Russians bought $1.2 billion in U.S. grain last year. including one-quarter of the wheat crop.

Shipping the grain also snarled the U.S. transportation system. creating shortages and raising prices on items not related to agriculture.

Butz quoted the President as saying "that American food played a large role in our discussions and has been a major factor in bringing the Far Eastern war to a close and maintaining stability in the Near East."

A White House official qualified Butz' statement by saying: "There was a very broadlybased development of a relationship with Russia. There were various elements involved. Certainly one could consider the sale of wheat as one of them."

Butz. however. went further. relating the leverage of U.S. food exports to specific developments.

"Why do you think they all stayed tight over there when the United States mined Haiphong harbor a year ago?" Butz asked. "Any other time they'd have turned to retaliations.

"It was part of the whole package," Butz said.

The 1972 Russian wheat sales originated in a trip by then Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans to Moscow in late 1971. He returned with word that the Soviets were interested in credit arrangements to buy U.S. grain.

In April 1972 Butz and Asst. Secretary of Agriculture Clarence Palmby went to Moscow to talk trade.

On May 9. the United States mined Haiphong harbor. North Vietnam's chief supply route. and bombed other sensitive targets. Despite widespread speculation of Soviet or Chinese retaliation. nothing happened Nixon left on schedule for the Moscow summit meeting two weeks later.

On July 5 the Russians began buying 5.5 million tons of wheat and 4.5 million tons of corn from Continental Grain Co.

Ultimately the Soviets bought 11.3 million tons of wheat. plus soybeans and feed grains. from six U.S. firms.

The quid pro quo over which the United States and Soviet Union had been dickering was for exchange of American food for Russian energy. particularly natural gas.

Although a credit agreement for grain sales was announced a month after Nixon's return from Moscow. the only agreement on gas was to begin talks. which are still going on without any pact in sight.

Congressional investigators say they have come to the conclusion that a favorable price for the wheat was pegged for the Russians at the summit.

Administration sources dispute that.

In any event. the price was held down for the Russians through subsidies to the American exporting firms.

By maintaining an artificial "world price" of about $1.64 for U.S. wheat and making up the difference for traders who had to pay more for it on the domestic market. the Agriculture Department allowed the Russians to buy much more cheaply than they could have on an open market.

There is little doubt now that the United States had a corner on wheat at that time and the U.S. domestic price was in fact the world price.

Consequently foreign buyers. including the Russians. would have had to buy U.S. grain. even at a higher price. without the subsidy. They might have bought less. but at higher prices they would have spent as much in this country without endangering its supplies.

In part. the undercutting of world prices stemmed from a series of mistaken judgments on the part of agriculture officials. who had labored for years under the burden of heavy surpluses and couldn't believe the supply was actually running out.

Butz admits that mistakes were made and says he would have taken the subsidy off sooner if he had known the true situation. But he says his critics would have done just as he did under the same circumstances.

Official reports indicated big sales but nothing near the actual volume. and gave farmers little hint of the boom to come.

Consequently. many farmers sold their crops early in the season for minimum prices. not knowing the Soviet purchases would make them worth much more in a few weeks.

Again. since the grain traders were assured of subsidies to cover any rise in the domestic price. it was primarily to the government's benefit. and the Russians. to keep the farmers in the dark and hold down the price. and the subsidy costs.

The Russians sale was not the only cause of the current U.S. grain strain and soaring food prices. The 440 million bushels of wheat they got accounted for only one-third of U.S. wheat exports. But it was the weight which tipped the balance from plenty to want.

A worldwide shortage of the basic sources of protein had been building for years as growing alluence brought increasing demand for more and better food—especially more meat fattened on the crucial grains and soybeans purchased by Russia.

In 1972. crop failures hit the Soviet Union and elsewhere.

Meanwhile. the U.S. Agriculture Department was holding 61.5 million acres out of production in an election year move to raise farm income.

The United States never actually ran out of grain at home. but its supplies had so dwindled that those holding the remainder could name their price.

Domestic wheat prices jumped from $1.68 a bushel in July 1972 to $2.49 in September. Soybeans. a major source of protein in livestock feed. went from $1.49 in June to $12.90 before export controls were finally imposed this summer.

Ann Landers

N.Y.C.'s mayor for gun legislation

Dear Ann Landers: I want to commend you for your recent column stressing the need for federal gun control legislation. A new handgun is being sold every 13 seconds in the United States. Americans are being murdered by handguns at the rate of one per hour. Police killings by handguns are nearly doubling every five years.

Since I began public life as a Member of Congress in 1961, I have advocated strong federal gun controls requiring that all firearms be registered and all firearms owners licensed, with only those who can demonstrate a specific, legitimate need receiving a license to own a handgun. Surely, if we can impose such controls on motor vehicles and drivers we can do the same with firearms.

New York City already has the nation's most stringent local gun laws. These local regulations work to some degree. New York's murder rate is ninth among the nation's largest cities, 50 per cent lower, for example, than Dallas, which has minimal firearms control.

However, the positive effect of these local statutes is severely limited by the absence of uniform federal controls. Nearly all the guns used to commit crimes in New York in recent history were guns illegally brought in from other jurisdictions which have little or no firearms controls.

You can be sure that mayors, police officers and citizens across the country deeply appreciate the prestigious voice you have added to the fight for stringent federal gun control.

Sincerely,
John V. Lindsay,
Mayor of New York

Dear Mayor Lindsay: As a citizen of The Second City, I thank the Mayor of the First City for his good letter. The facts and figures cited by you underscore dramatically the need for Americans to wake up and smell the coffee.

———

Dear Ann Landers: I feel as if I have been slapped in the face. Will you please tell me if I have a right to feel insulted, or is there a side to this story that I am not seeing clearly?

A very close friend of mine who has been married about as long as I have (20 years) is being cheated on left and right. Her husband, a handsome swinger-type, is making a fool of her. I thought she deserved better treatment so I told her, giving full details of the young woman he was sneaking around with, places they had been seen, specific dates and so on.

Her response was a very chilly, "Thank you for your good intentions, but I wish you would mind your own business."

If that were MY husband I would have been grateful that someone had taken the trouble to tell me. Am I crazy, or is she? — Seeing Red

Dear Red: Some wives would like to be told, others already know and appreciate the silence of their friends. Figuring out to which category a cheated-on wife belongs is pretty sticky stuff. She gave you good advice. I hope you take it.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother believes that what people are shows on their faces. She says a sneaky person usually has small eyes, a stingy person has thin lips, a pointed nose, etc. She could talk for hours on the subject — and has. Do you believe in this theory? — Moon Child

Dear Child: No. But I'm firmly convinced that the type of life people lead shows on their faces — especially women. Boozing and carousing takes its toll. By the time a woman is 40 she has the kind of face she deserves.

Going to a wedding? Giving one? Or standing up in one? Even if you're already married Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will answer questions about today's weddings. Mets wrap up NL East

CHICAGO (AP) — The New York Mets are champions of the National League East and they did it in Chicago, as if to flaunt their success in the face of the failure-ridden Cubs.

The Mets clinched it Monday in a 6-4 victory over the Cubs, who once were eight games ahead of the field in the East but then did their customary fold.

Mets third baseman Wayne Garrett told newsmen in the champagne-drenched dressing room afterward he never was discouraged when the Cubs were so far ahead.

"Not really," he said. "Chicago has always done it (fold.) Three out of five years I've been here the Cubs have gotten way out in front at the start, then all of a sudden they hit the wall."

"But I'll admit back in June when they had the best record in the majors I thought they had a lot better chance than we did," Garrett said.

The Mets clinched their title in a morning game, the first of a scheduled double-header. Fifteen minutes after it was over, the meaningless second contest was called off and the champagne was uncorked.

Everybody got splattered, from the batboy to Manager Yogi Berra.

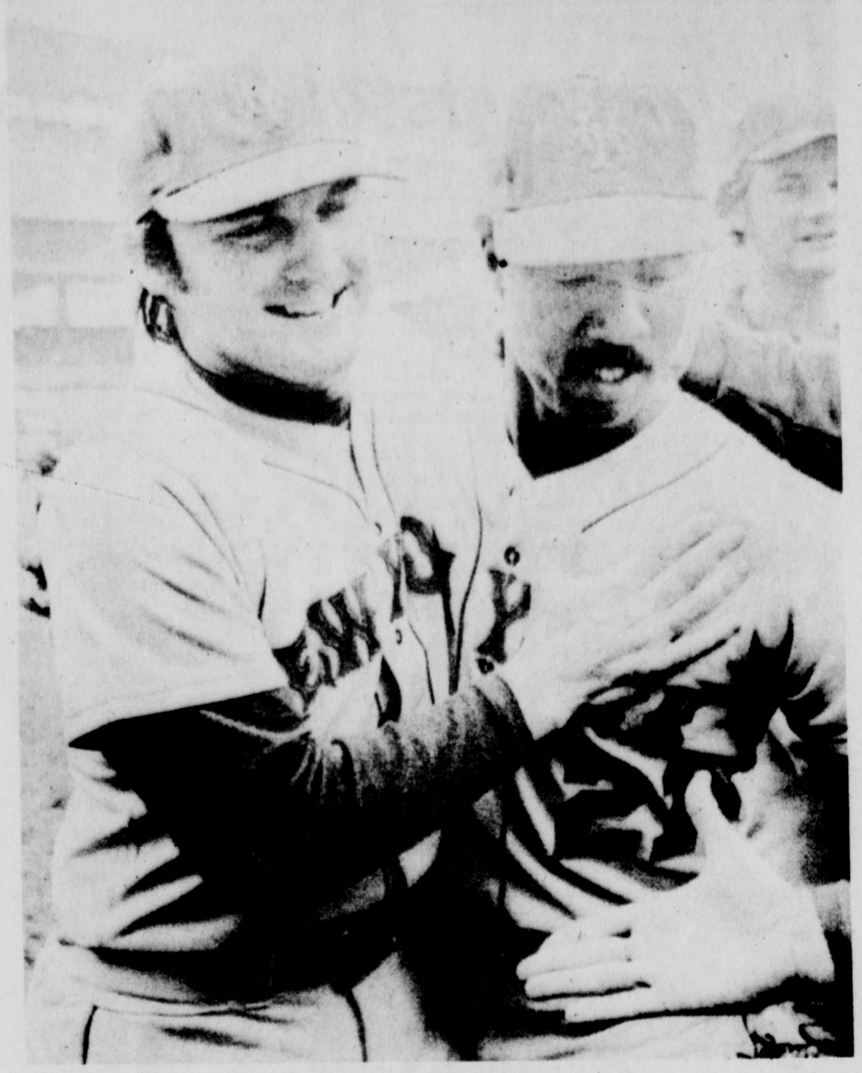

Rusty Staub, who hammered out four hits in leading the way into the pennant playoff against Cincinnati, said, "A couple of months ago we were out of it. Then we put it all together."

Berra said that only once during the season did he think the Mets might not make it.

"That's when we were about 12 games out," Berra said, "and had all those injuries."

"I guess the baseball race is like a distance runner," Garrett said. "If you give it all you've got at the beginning, you've got nothing left at the end."

When the conquering heros arrived in New York Monday night, they were welcomed by a crowd estimated by police at 1,000 at LaGuardia Airport's remote Marine Air Terminal.

Red Schoendienst likes Redlegs, Mets matchup

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals Manager Red Schoendienst says he likes the New York Mets' pitching and the Cincinnati Reds' hitting in the playoff for the National League pennant.

"It's a short series, so either club could win," observed Schoendienst, who Monday played in a pro-celebrity golf tourney as the Mets locked up the East Division title.

"The Mets have great pitching, and they've been hot," he noted. "It's taken them about the whole season too for them to get health."

Schoendienst said his big disappointment was that the Cards, who led the Mets by 12 games Aug. 5, afterward slumped so sharply.

"We were 11 games over .500 at that time," he said. "I really believed that we could maintain at least a .500 pace and probably win it."

The Cards instead dropped 31 of their next 46 games and only in the last week ended a tailspin with five concluding triumphs.

But the closing surge left most of the team's players in a philosophical mood.

"At lease we were able to go out winners," said catcher Ted Simmons, who hit safely in 35 of the final 38 games and ended with a .310 batting average.

"You might say we could've won," he added, "but you might say that also about clubs like the Chicago Cubs, Pittsburgh Pirates and Montreal Expos."

"You like to think you could win every year," said Lou Brock, who stole 70 bases and hit .297, "but only one team can win. We were just a little short."

Leo Durocher quits long baseball career

HOUSTON (AP) — Leo Durocher became manager of the Houston Astros last year on a shot in the dark—and missed.

Durocher, 67, who had already managed three World Series teams, took charge of a team many forecast as a pennant contender for 1973.

Durocher said in the spring he'd like to take a team all the way one more time. Instead, the Astros tumbled from a second place finish in 1972 to a disappointing fourth this season in the National League West.

So, Durocher announced his resignation Monday and General Manager Spec Richardson named third base coach Preston Gomez as Houston's new field general.

The official wording said Durocher resigned but it was more likely a retirement for the volcanic Durocher, whose career as a player and manager spanned almost 50 years and probably is one of the most colorful in baseball history.

Durocher stopped short of saying he was retiring from baseball but he left the impression of a man ready for a rest.

"There were no factors involved in my resigning," Durocher said, "I feel great. But for someone who's been in baseball as long as I have there comes a time to rest.

"My plans for the future include going back to Palm Springs and teeing it up."

Richardson told a news conference he had tried to talk Durocher out of resigning but his efforts were unsuccessful.

Asked if he would have returned next season if the Astros had made a better show, Durocher said "I doubt it. I'd been thinking about this for some time. Then I made up my mind a few days ago."

Bugner, Ros clash in London tonight

LONDON (AP) — Joe Bugner, the man fight fans once loved to boo, re-enters the ring Tuesday night after two straight losses.

A cheering crowd will greet him in London's Royal Albert Hall.

European Heavyweight Champion Bugner, still only 23 but with a veteran's record of 50 fights including six losses, is now riding a crest of popularity and is a hot favorite to outclass Italian challenger Bepi Ros.

Most pundits agree the 31-year-old Ros should prove no match for fast-improving Bugner. Hungarian-born Bugner lost against Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier in his last two fights. And battles don't come much tougher than that.

'Red' Russell dies

INDIANAPOLIS — Albert E. "Reb" Russell, a former major league baseball pitcher who once struck out Babe Ruth on three straight pitches, died at the age of 84.

Confident Cards can bounce back

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Can a National Football League team crushed 45-10 climb back in just one week?

The St. Louis Cardinals' Don Coryell thinks so and his team will get a chance to prove it Sunday against the Oakland Raiders.

"We just played a team that was very fine," Coryell said Monday in reference to the Cardinals' loss the day before to the Dallas Cowboys, "but we'll bounce back, there's no question about it."

Coryell said his team "made a lot of yards and had opportunities to score" but added that "defensively we got ripped apart.

"What's the difference whether you lose by one touchdown or five?" he asked. "If we had one chance in a hundred to win, we were going to take it."

The Cards, whose record is 2-1, will take on the Raiders Sunday at Busch Stadium. The loss to Dallas resulted in no serious injuries, Coryell said.

Renovation starts at Yankee Stadium

NEW YORK (AP) — The "House That Ruth Built" is tumbling down.

Contractors began tearing apart Yankee Stadium Monday in the beginning of a two-year renovation project.

By the time it's finished, it will cost the city about $27 million to transform the venerable old park into a modern baseball plant.

Late start will give pitchers advantage in Bucs, NY series

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Sparky Anderson expected it but he would have preferred Pittsburgh or Montreal in the National League playoffs than the Mets.

"I said the Mets all along during the last couple weeks," said the Cincinnati manager.

Anderson said hitters would be at a disadvantage facing the 4 p.m. sun at Riverfront Stadium, particularly against pitchers like Tom Seaver, Jerry Kossman and John Matlack.

Anderson said he expected to face Seaver twice in the best-of-five series to determine the league pennant winner.

Anderson indicated he planned to use lefthander Don Gullett, 19-8, in the opening game Saturday.

"That afternoon sun is a definite advantage for pitchers who throw low and hard like me," said Gullett earlier. Anderson had said the remaining games will be hurled by Jack Billingham, 19-8, Ross Grimsley and Fred Norman "but not necessarily in that order."

Meanwhile, a cloud hung over the Reds clubhouse when outfielder Bobby Tolan was removed from the roster. Tolan, who suffered a season long slump hitting .206, was unavailable for comment.

He was suspended the last three games of the season in his second run-in in a month with management.

Pitchers batting eyes ready says Dick Williams

OAKLAND (AP) — "Don't worry, we'll have lots of pinch hitters ready," says Oakland A's Manager Dick Williams as he faces a possible return trip to the World Series.

He adds that he hasn't forgotten how to use them.

The A's and Baltimore Orioles, American League division champions, will continue using the league's new designated hitter rule in the championship playoffs. But in the World Series, pitchers will be in the batting orders for both teams.

"Our pitchers are ready to hit," says 21-game winner Jim Hunter, considered one of baseball's best hitting pitchers before the designated hitter rule came along.

Hunter, who singled last week against Minnesota in his only at-bat of the season, explained that A's pitchers took batting practice sessions seriously all year. They played make-believe games for small change that went into a pot for a post-season party.

"Most pitchers aren't good hitters anyway," said Williams. "We've had them working hard on their bunting in batting practice."

S-C JV, freshman squads in action

The Smith-Cotton junior varsity and freshman B-teams are scheduled to see football action tonight.

The Tigers' jayvees, who were blanked in their season's opener two weeks ago in Marshall, will meet the Hickman Kewpies at 7 p.m. in Columbia.

S-C's freshman B-team is scheduled to take on Clinton in Jennie Jaynes Stadium at 6:30 p.m.

Name Baccus on defense

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Defensive end Gary Baccus of Oklahoma probably had as much to do with the Sooners' 7-7 football tie with then top-ranked Southern California Saturday night as anybody else.

When the Trojans threatened the Sooner goal early in the first quarter, Baccus knocked down two Trojan passes.

In addition, he made eight unassisted and three assisted tackles.

For that performance, Baccus, bothered by injuries most of his career, was named unanimously the Big Eight Conference defensive player of the week today by a panel of sports writers.

"That's great," said Baccus' coach, Barry Switzer, when he learned of his senior star's selection. "Our defensive coaches feel like Baccus played the best of any defensive end we've ever had."

Other nominations were Steve Towle of Kansas, Carl Devorce of Oklahoma State, Ed Shoen of Colorado, Tom Ruud of Nebraska, David Brown of Kansas State, Randy Bozich of Iowa State and Tony Gillick of Missouri.

Dave Humm, Nebraska quarterback, was selected conference offensive player Monday by a split vote over fullback Waymon Clark of Oklahoma.

Humm set two Nebraska passing records for completions and yards gained in the Cornhuskers' 20-16 triumph over Wisconsin. He hit on 25 of 36 throws for 297 yards and two touchdowns.

Missouri visits Saturday

Poor crowds bother SMU's David Smith

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist Coach Dave Smith is beginning to wonder just what it takes to draw college football fans through the turnstiles these days.

The Mustangs are the only unbeaten team in the Southwest Conference and lead the nation in rushing yet have only averaged some 13,000 fans in two home dates at Texas Stadium.

"They deserve to have some people watching them," Smith said Monday of his Mustangs, who tackle unbeaten Missouri Saturday in a regionally televised clash.

Smith admitted, "Frankly I am concerned. You can't say we're not exciting or we haven't been winning. The players have pride. Anywhere I've ever been if you played with pride the people would support you."

Smith said he didn't want to get into the squabble between SMU supporters over Texas Stadium or the Cotton Bowl. SMU plays its intersectional game in Texas Stadium, home of the professional Dallas Cowboys, and all the SWC games in the Cotton Bowl.

"Moving back to Ownby Stadium on the SMU campus has always been a vision of mine," said Smith, who was highly successful at Oklahoma State last year before he took the SMU job.

"We took the stadium at Stillwater, Okla., and averaged 38,000," Smith said.

Ownby Stadium seats only 20,000 but Smith believes it could be refurbished.

"We sold the alumni a yard of turf for $30.00 and rebuilt the stadium with bonds," Smith added.

Smith said every game in Texas Stadium "is like a road trip. We have to move our uniforms and equipment—everything. But it's up to the Board of Governors to make the decision."

Smith said he doesn't blame the student body "because attendance has doubled. We've got to get some good Methodists in the stands. The Baptists go to see Baylor."

Lions romp, 31-6

Atlanta offense gasps in Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions shifted to "reverse" gear Monday night and left the Atlanta Falcons stuck in "park."

It was what the Lions needed if they intend to drive toward the National Football League playoffs and it put a detour in Atlanta's path to their division flag.

A pair of razzle-dazzle reverse plays, plus the superb running of substitute fullback Mel Farr, sparked Detroit to a 31-6 thrashing of the Falcons before a crowd of 45,599 and a national television audience.

The triumph was the first for the Lions against a loss and tie, while Atlanta has lost two straight after an impressive 62-7 victory over New Orleans.

The game opened the Don McCafferty era at Tiger Stadium.

And what a way to begin.

McCafferty, who replaced Joe Schmidt as head coach this season, is noted for his occasional use of trick plays. The former coach of the Super Bowl champion Baltimore Colts wasted no time trying them out before the home fans.

Atlanta, however, wasted little time in getting on the scoreboard as Nick Mike-Mayer boomed a 48-yard field goal four minutes into the game.

The Lions turned the game around three minutes later as wide receiver Larry Walton sprinted 57 yards for a touchdown on an end around reverse.

The final TD came in the fourth quarter when Ron Jessie scored on a nine-yard reverse. That put the game out of reach with 12 minutes remaining.

Farr, who played in place of Steve Owens who pulled a leg muscle in pregame warmups, rushed for 90 yards in 16 carries including a 32-yard touchdown run with one second left in the first half.

McCafferty didn't hang around to savor the victory. But Atlanta Coach Norm Van Brocklin had a few words to say in the opposite locker room. Few of them were nice.

"We made mistakes that killed us," he growled. "It's just that simple: fumbles, dropped balls, missed blocks."

Buckeyes replace So. Calif. at top

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "It really doesn't mean a damn thing," said Ohio State football Coach Woody Hayes after the Buckeyes replaced Southern California as the No. 1 team in the Associated Press national college football poll.

"It puts the heat on you. It means we'll just have to work harder," Hayes said. Ohio State received 35 first-place votes and an overwhelming 1,118 points from the 61 sports writers and broadcasters on the AP panel after the Buckeyes rolled to a a convincing 37-3 victory over Texas Christian before a record crowd in Ohio Stadium.

Southern California, which had been first since the season started, slipped to fourth place after its 14-game winning streak was halted by Saturday's 7-7 tie with Oklahoma.

The Buckeyes practiced for only two hours Monday in what Hayes called a "coming back" day.

Converted linebacker Bruce Elia appeared to have the inside track on the job of veteran fullback Harold "Champ" Henson, who was carried off the field Saturday with torn knee ligaments.

Henson came out of Saturday's game after a short gain near the end of the first period. He led the nation in scoring last year with 20 touchdowns and had accounted for two Ohio State touchdowns in each of the Buckeyes' first two games this year.

Nebraska held on to second place in the AP poll with 10 first place votes and a total of 897 after a 20-16 triumph over Wisconsin.

Third was Alabama with 837 votes, after a 44-0 thrashing of Vanderbilt.

After Southern California came Michigan with two first-place votes and a total of 741. Oklahoma was next with one and a half first-place votes and a record of one victory and one tie.

Penn State tallied three first-place votes and was ranked seventh. Notre Dame was eighth with a total of 512 and an unblemished record after two games.

'Flying Finn,' Nurmi dead at age of 76

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Paavo Nurmi, the Flying Finn of the athletic tracks between the two world wars, died early today after a long illness. He was 76.

Nurmi had suffered several heart attacks in recent years and had been partly paralyzed.

A star in all distances between 1,500 meters and the marathon, he set 28 world records and won seven gold medals in the Olympics in 1920, 1924 and 1928.

He probably would have won more, but on the eve of the 1932 games in Los Angeles, he was declared a professional and banned from Olympic competition. Nurmi went into semi-seclusion for several years and always thereafter was bitter toward sports writers, accusing them of giving wrong information to the Olympic committee.

Nurmi became a successful businessman and operated a profitable construction company until his death.

A divorced man, he lived in a downtown apartment house he owned and, until his first severe heart attack several years ago, ran a mile or more each morning. After the condition of his heart forced him to stop running, he could be seen every morning strolling in the parks with his housekeeper-nurse.

As he grew older, his bitterness toward the press eased, and he gave his first interview in years on his 70th birthday. His theme was that the athlete of today had too many artificial and mechanical aids.

"In my time we only ran as fast as we could," he said. "We didn't have any scientific tricks to help us."

He said that he just ran against the clock, without concerning himself with what his competitors were doing.

Jays have lost only two CMC games under Adkins

1973 Jays continue on the same path as past Jefferson City football clubs

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

If Saturday night's game is any indication of what's forthcoming from the unpredictable (at least to date) Smith-Cotton Tigers, head coach Greg Cook can breath a little easier. But his break can't be very long, since Friday night, the Bengals will open the Central Missouri Conference season with Jefferson City, a team with more legend than a United States Army map.

With only three games under their belt, the 1973 football season has already been one of ups and downs. Cook is hopeful that this will be an up week. If it isn't S-C could be in for real trouble.

After a brilliant start nearly three weeks ago against the Marshall Owls, the Tigers have since been on a yo-yo course. They slipped from a 19-14 win over the Owls to a humiliating 20-0 defeat in Jefferson City against Helias. Saturday night on a rain-soaked Jennie Jaynes field, the Bengals put it all together bombing St. Joseph Lafayette, 41-0, a team that came into the game with a 2-0 record, the strong throwing arm of Mark VanMeter and two 19-year-old players.

Jefferson City isn't fancy, they don't do anything tricky; they just run at you, wait for you to make some mistakes and run at you some more.

As evidence of their rushing attack, of the 784 yards the Jays have tallied so far in total offense, 674 have come on the ground.

They are balanced; the statistics from Friday's 34-12 win over Hannibal found fullback Rusty Sweaney netting 111 yards, halfback Delbert Thomas added 101, while his counterpart on the other side — David Lynch — picked up 91.

For the season, Thomas leads the club with 264 yards on 41 carries; Lynch follows with 222 on 31 attempts. Sweaney is third, picking up 123 yards on 26 carries.

The Jays are as tough defensively as any outstate team in Missouri. Going into Friday's contest, they had yielded only 45 yards on the ground and held their opponents to but 15 first downs.

Hannibal didn't fair much better, picking up only 41 yards rushing on 20 attempts. Like the Jays' other two foes, Raytown South and Kansas City East, the Pirates were forced to the air in an effort to stay in the game.

Jefferson City is showing the same consistency this year that has been a trademark of Pete Adkins' teams since 1958. Adkins took over the club that year, bringing with him from his seven-year stint at Centralia a 49-12-2 high school coaching mark. That winning tradition is continuing at Jefferson City, where his teams have won 138, lost only eight and tied but two.

In his 16 years as the Jays' head coach, Adkins has lost only two conference games — both to Columbia. Both times it cost him the league championship.

Smith-Cotton was able to tie Jefferson City in 1958, 6-6. Those are the only three blemishes the Jays have on their record during the Adkins' regime.

If the past two performances against Jefferson City mean anything, S-C fans may be in for one of the best football games ever in the history of Jennie Jaynes Stadium.

It took a super effort by defensive halfback Delbert Thomas in Jefferson City to stop the Tigers' upset bid in the final seconds of last year's game. Thomas managed to push wide receiver Rick Carter out of bounds at the one-yard line after Carter and quarterback Paul Kostopolus hooked up on a 39-yard pass play.

Jefferson City won the game, 14-13.

In the Jays' 14-6 win in 1971 here, the Tigers came within one fluke TD and two crucial penalties of winning that one.

But that's just football I guess.

Although the Tigers have nothing more than the tie to show for the series since Adkins has been in command, the overall series (records only go back to 1923) is surprisingly close. Jefferson City has won 26 . . . the Tigers 20. There has been only the one tie.

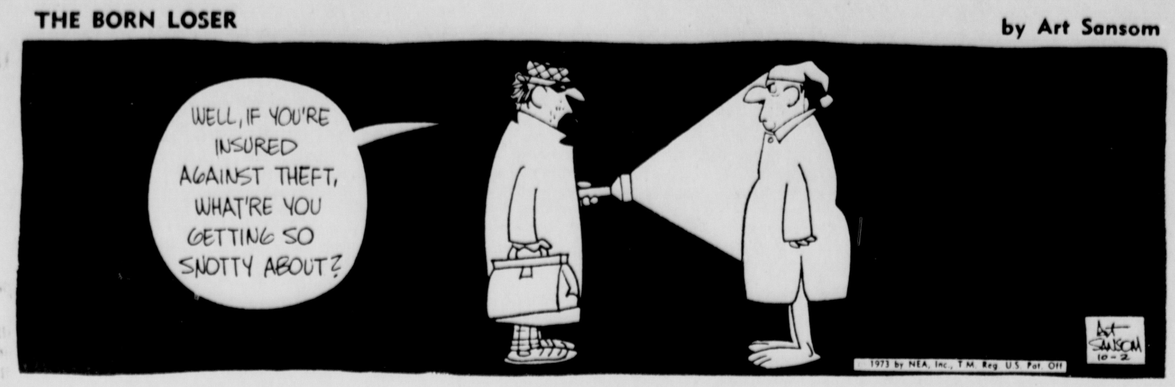

In CMC competition, however, the Jays hold a 23-14-1 record over Smith-Cotton.

There's enough information on Jefferson City under Adkins to write a book, like the team's 71-game winning streak that stands as a national record . . . .Adkins' winning percentage (1958-72) of .956.

It goes without much comment that the Tigers need to be at the highest point of their yo-yo season to date if they are to sidetrack Jefferson City.

North wants to play four hearts, once he hears his partner's no-trump opening. He bids two diamonds to transfer to hearts and then takes his partner right to game.

West opens the 10 of diamonds. East wins and returns the jack of spades. South rises with the ace; discards the two losing spades in dummy on his good diamonds and winds up losing just three tricks.

If North and South are not playing JTB, North will wind up in four hearts. East will make his normal opening of the spade jack and there will be no way to keep the defense from scoring tricks with the king of spades and the aces of the other three suits.

When you play Jacoby transfer or JTB in its basic form, all two-level suit responses to a one no-trump opening are artificial and forcing. Two clubs is Stayman and asks partner to bid two diamonds if he doesn't hold a four-card heart or spade suit and to bid two of a major it he has four cards there. If he holds two four-card majors he simply bids the better one.

Two diamonds is a heart transfer. It guarantees at least five hearts and asks partner to bid two hearts whereupon responder will bid along.

Two hearts is a similar transfer and shows at least five spades.

The bidding has been: 2

You, South, hold:

♠ A Q 8 7 4 ♥ K 4 ♦ 7 4 2 ♣ 7 3 2

What do you do now?

A—Bid two no-trump. Your two heart call was a Jacoby transfer to show spades. This follow-up bid tells your partner that you can play either spades or no-trump and are not quite strong enough to commit the hand to game.

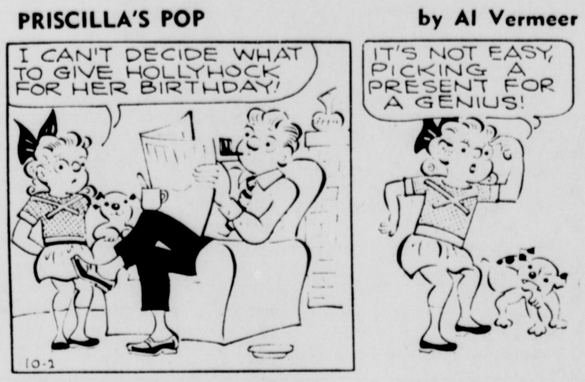

TODAY'S QUESTION

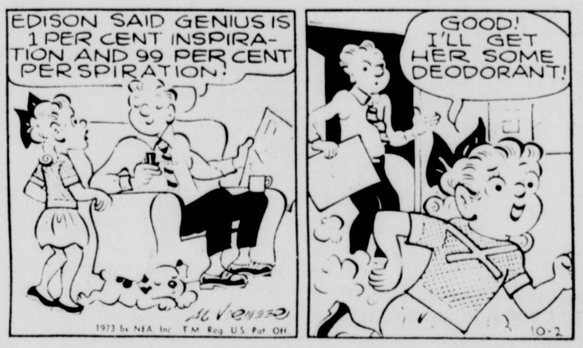

Your partner continues to three no-trump. What do you do now?

Parents of sextuplets want return to normalcy

By JUDY STOWELL
Associated Press Writer

LAKEWOOD, Colo. (AP) — Edna and Eugene Stanek say they just want to get thir lives back to normal. With five new babies and one extra bedroom, that won't be easy.

The five surviving Stanek sextuplets, born Sept. 16, are expected home from Colorado General Hospital toward the end of October. The big problems then will be "cribs, clothing and economics," said Dr. James Strain, a hospital pediatrician.

But for the moment, the Staneks are trying to restore their privacy. They got an unlisted telephone number, and the 31-year-old Stanek, an accountant, has refused news interviews for his wife after she held one news conference.

"We intend to keep our family life private," he said. "And that's been difficult because of the considerable amount of interest."

"They are both going about their business as usual," Strain said. "Gene is still looking forward to skiing and is going to work as usual."

Friends and neighbors have offered to help care for the infants and provide furniture and clothing. But there will be problems.

One neighbor said the Staneks have only one extra room and she can envision "wall-to-wall cribs in that one room."

Stanek said his family probably will have to move, but said he won't begin looking until next spring or summer. The couple has lived in their present home nearly four years with their other child, 4-year-old Gregory.

"The big problem for the Staneks will be feeding," said Alma Arbuckle, head nurse at Colorado General. But staff nurse Paula Kenning predicted that the real problem will come "when the babies are 18 months old and all going different ways."

"The mechanics of feeding will have to be shared with neighbors and friends," Strain said. "Quite a few people have volunteered help, and the Staneks are thinking about some live-in help for a while when the babies get home."

Mr. and Mrs. John Strasheim, friends of the Staneks, have set up a fund for contributions to help with medical costs, estimated at $28,000 to $30,000. The Strasheims said Stanek believes his insurance will cover all but about $8,000 to $10,000.

The smallest sextuplet, Julia, died two days after birth. But John, Jeffrey, Steven, Nathan and Catherine were reported in good condition Monday, receiving routine care for premature infants and eating breast milk. Strain said they must weigh about five pounds before they can go home.

Poster child

Stott Hafen, 5, of Las Vegas, was named the 1974 March of Dines national poster child recently by golf pro Arnold Palmer, honorary national chairman of the prevention and treatment of birth defects. Some 250,000 children are afflicted with birth defects annually in this country. (UPI)

Santa Fe Railroad has only one of its kind

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Writer

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — The Santa Fe Railroad believes it now has the most sophisticated piece of equipment in existence for measuring the rock and roll of cars traveling its tracks.

A specially-equipped car—a converted private Santa Fe executive's car of about 1940 vintage—takes a reading every 11 inches as it travels along the track, measuring nine track conditions.

It's designed to detect trouble spots before they cause derailments or other problems, and Santa Fe thinks it will provide the railroad with the best ongoing track maintenance program in the industry.

"It's the only one like it on the books," said C. R. "Ray" Kaelin, Topeka, Santa Fe's director of technical research and development. "There are other cars like it, but not nearly as sophisticated."

The Santa Fe took the car on its first trial run Sept. 4, then took it to Chicago and back for tests.

Monday, it began its first big assignment—a trip to Los Angles and back within the next few weeks to collect data on Santa Fe's tracks to the West Coast.

Officially dubbed the "Track Geometry Scientific Testing Car," the car includes an instrumentation room, work shop, office and galley, and has its own generators so it's self-sufficient except it has to be towed.

All it needs is to hook onto any train going anywhere and roll along recording track data.

Special sensory devices attached to the wheels record such things as how far the rails are apart, roll and pitch of the car, alignment of rails and surface condition of the rails.

Nine in-coders on the wheels feed information to a "Geo-Trac" recorder in the instrumentation room, measuring lateral and vertical acceleration, twist, surfaces of the two rails, alignment of the rails, gauge width of the track and elevation of the track.

Optical in-coders convert mechanical motion of the wheels into electronic signals which the recorder measures.

Inside the car, a "gyro-stabilized pendulum" records the car's movement to give an indication how much sway the track causes when cars pass over it.

"As we get heavier equipment, this will become more and more important," Kaelin said of the maintenance program capabilities opened up to Santa Fe.

"Locomotives now weigh up to 420,000 pounds and freight cars weigh up to 276,000 pounds. A 40-ton car was the standard 30 years ago and we're still using the same track. Now, 100-ton cars are the standard.

"This is why track maintenance is more of a challenge than ever before.

"For a long time, the missing link in the chain was the technical development. My department plans to accelerate technical development now to the track side of our operation."

The track-testing car weighs 200,000 pounds, so it provides the needed information about how the track reacts to heavier cars.

The car, built in Santa Fe's Topeka shop, is capable of going up to 150 miles an hour, and can effectively capture data every 11 inches of track up to 80 miles an hour. But Kaelin plans to run it at 50 miles per hour for present testing.

He said the 11-inch testing is done because, "we want to test the track again and again to see how much it degrades. It's a preventive maintenance type of study."

"We will be able to plan our maintenance, and believe me very little of this has been done," he said. "Any irregularities we find can be fixed within a day or two."

Santa Fe will continue to use track supervisors to travel the track as they have in the past, making visual checks.

"We'll still run them out as a safety factor," Kaelin said, "because the new car won't be available in all areas all the time."

The supervisors also will make on-the-spot inspections of the car-detected trouble spots.

Kaelin expects the new car to travel about 50,000 miles a year collecting data on Santa Fe tracks.

A computer now being programmed here will be added to the car to provide tapes of the data collected on the runs. Presently, the "Geo-Trac" provides a printout which shows where every deviation in the track exists.

The computer, which will also provide a printout for each mile of track tested and summarize defects, will provide the tapes to be analyzed in Santa Fe's big computer in its headquarters here.

"To a railroader, all of this is something just unheard of," Kaelin said.

Tragedy in small town affects most residents

STANFORD, Mont. (AP) — Everybody knows everybody else here. It's not much different from thousands of other small towns. When tragedy strikes in places like Stanford, it hits almost every household.

A Saturday evening plane trip, described by the sheriff as nothing more than a "joy ride," ended in a burning heap on a nearby mountainside. Eight persons, all of whom grew up in this town of 500, were dead.

"When eight people from a small community are killed at once, it's pretty somber," said Deputy Sheriff Ralph Gentry.

Among the dead were a pilot who had flown a company-owned plane home for a visit, two college students home for the weekend and the county treasurer.

"Things are pretty quiet right now," Gentry said. "All of the families are well known to everyone."

On Wednesday, there will be one funeral service for two of the victims and a mass service for the other six at the Stanford High School auditorium.

The eight had gone for the ride in a plane flown by Arthur Myllymaki, 22. He had left Stanford six months ago and moved to Phoenix, Ariz., to work as a pilot for a construction firm. He had flown the Cessna 402 to Seattle on business. On his way back to Phoenix, Myllymaki had stopped off in Stanford.

It could not be determined what brought the eight together on Saturday afternoon, but residents said all of them were friends. Sheriff Charles O. Loberg of Judith Basin County said everyone in Stanford was in some way connected with one of the victims.

"The people just walk around in a daze," Loberg said. "It's like they're in a trance." Six of the victims were graduates of Stanford High School. The other two were juniors there.

The dead included Patricia Myllymaki, 36, the county treasurer, and her rancher husband, Lyle, also 36. Others in the plane were Zane Samson, 16; Lynn Barnard, 20; Gus Dusek, 27; Lennie Haker, 20; and Jack Brady, 16.

Miss Barnard was a college student at Montana State University in Bozeman. Lennie Haker was a lineman who made a name for himself as a football player at Stanford and was attending Helena's Carroll College on a football scholarship.

Some local residents said they believed the occupants of the plane were taking an airborne look at an inn operated by Samson's father just before the craft crashed into the Little Belt Mountains near Stanford and burned. A federal investigation into the crash is continuing.

Proxmire accosted by robbers again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Clad in gym shorts and shirt, his usual dress for routine physical-fitness jogs between home and Capitol Hill, Sen. William Proxmire was confronted with two youths demanding his money.

"You've got to be kidding," the Wisconsin Democrat told them Monday night. Last year he bluffed two would-be holdup men out of robbing him when he claimed to have terminal cancer.

This time, police said Proxmire was injured slightly when one of the youths beat him with a stick as the senator grappled with him before the pair fled. The two, aged 14 and 15, were arrested 25 minutes later when Proxmire identified them from a police car in which he was cruising the neighborhood.

The attempted robbery came the same day that the jury was chosen in the trial of a Washington youth charged with attempting to kill Sen. John C. Stennis, D.-Miss. Opening arguments in the trial were scheduled for today.

The youth, 19-year-old Tyrone I. Marshall, is charged with assault with intent to kill a member of Congress. He is the first person to be tried under the 1971 Congressional Assassination Act, which made it a federal crime to assault a congressman.

The two arrested in the Proxmire attack were charged with assault on a member of Congress under the same 1971 law. They also were charged with intent to commit armed robbery. Police did not release their names.

The senator said one of the boys beat him on the side and thighs with a stick.

"I finally grabbed the stick and dragged him out into the street," Proxmire said. "I broke off part of the stick."

Proxmire is a physical-fitness devotee and regularly dresses in gym clothing while he walks and jogs between his office and home.

In May 1972, Proxmire was stopped by two men, one of whom demanded: "Give me your money or I'll blow your head off," he told police.

Police said the senator told them "Go ahead and shoot, because I have terminal cancer and will be dead in two weeks anyway," and then began to shout. The men fled.

Stennis, 72, chairman of the Armed Services Committee, was accosted outside his home the night of Jan. 30, robbed of 25 cents, a pocket watch and his Phi Beta Kappa key, then shot. He was hospitalized for months and finally returned to the Senate in September.

Marshall, who has been held in lieu of $100,000 bond, faces a maximum sentence of life imprisonment if convicted. His brother, John, 22, has pleaded guilty in the case and is awaiting sentencing. A third defendant is free on bond, pending trial.

Milk price increase effective this week

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — A price increase that should cost housewives an additional 8-10 cents for each gallon of milk goes into effect this week in 13 states.

The increase was announced earlier in notices sent to processors who buy milk from Mid-America Dairymen, Inc., Jim Reeves of Springfield, Mid-America vice president, said.

"We're attempting to raise the dairy farmer to his former level of income in order to maintain an adequate supply of milk for the nation," said Reeves. "At present, this is in jeopardy."

He added:

The cost-price squeeze is taking the profit out of the dairy business. Feed costs, which are half the cost of producing milk, have more than doubled since last year."

Increases were noted Monday at grocery stores here, in Topeka and Wichita, Kan. In at least one Topeka convenience store, the price per gallon leaped by 30 cents, but generally the increases were between 8 and 16 cents per gallon.

The cost of a gallon here rose from $1.40 to $1.56.

Reeves said, "Some of the increase may be a pass-through from previous raises that were not taken."

Processors were notified of the increases effective Monday in these states:

The Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Illinois, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas, Colorado and Louisiana.

In Texas, the other state where Mid-America markets milk, "the increase went into effect 15 days ago because feed down there is virtually nonexistent," Reeves said.

Mid-America is the nation's second largest milk producer.

Reeves said the largest is Associated Milk Producers, San Antonio, Tex.

Faraway Micronesia split over government

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Trouble in paradise is the picture that is painted at U.N. headquarters of faraway Micronesia, known officially as the U.S. Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands.

Outsiders thinking about the 115,000 inhabitants of the 2,000-odd islands may envy their simple life, their 75-to 85-degree climate and their elbow room of three million square miles of ocean.

But U.N. observers report that the islanders are divided over whether they should stay together or split up and whether they should remain under the United States or take some degree of self-government.

Germany controlled the islands before World War I, and Japan had them between the wars. The United States took them in World War II. The U.N. Security Council gave Washington a trusteeship over them on April 2, 1947.

The agreement made the islands a so-called strategic trust territory. That allowed the United States to establish bases and station forces there but required that it move the inhabitants toward self-government or independence.

Even before that, however, the United States had started using some of the islands as atomic test zones, and Bikini Atoll became an international household word.

Bikini, Eniwetok and Kwajelein are part of the Marshall Islands, one of three groups in Micronesia. The others are the Carolines, which include Peleliu, and the Marianas, of which Saipan and Tinian are part. Saipan is the territorial capital.

The United States ultimately saw the islanders develop enough political consciousness to establish a Congress of Micronesia. Four years ago, a delegation from the congress began talks with U.S. officials on the territory's future.

They had agreed by last year that Micronesia should have self-government in free association with the United States. Then the congress suddenly instructed its delegates to seek independence. The talks were suspended.

Since then, the United States has begun separate talks with delegates from the legislature of the Marianas.

The Marianas islanders have voted several times for separation from the rest of Micronesia and unification with Guam, formerly part of the Marianas but now a direct U.S. dependency. The United States has agreed to the separation.

Meanwhile, a U.N. mission reported the situation to the Trusteeship Council. The council elicited a statement from the U.S. delegate that U.S. policy still was to maintain the unity of the territory.

On June 22, the council urged the United States to resume the talks with the all-Micronesia delegation and said a final settlement should please both the Marianas islanders and the others.

Some progress in newspaper strike noted

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Some progress has been reported in efforts to end the 42-day-old St. Louis newspaper strike, but a union official said Monday that no negotiating sessions are planned for the immediate future.

Harland Horn, secretary-treasurer of Teamster Local 610, said "some progress has been made" as a result of a 12-hour secret session held Sunday. He would not discuss specifics.

No talks were held Monday and Horn said he expected none would be held until federal mediator Paul Bowers returned from a meeting in Washington.

Operations of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and Globe-Democrat were halted when Teamsters walked off the job Aug. 22. The union represents about 170 delivery truck drivers and 32 dock hands.

Harvest operations set back by rains

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Harvest operations in most areas of Missouri were set back by last week's heavy rains.

The state Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said Monday only two days were suitable for field work in the week that ended Saturday.

The corn crop was 58 per cent mature with 7 per cent harvested. It was 67 per cent mature and 13 per cent harvested at the same time in 1972.

Soybeans were 32 per cent mature and 3 per cent harvested, compared with 48 per cent mature and 9 per cent harvested last year.

First arrival of turbotrain 30 minutes late

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The first scheduled turbotrain arrival in St. Louis was 30 minutes late Monday, but a spokesman for the National Railroad Passenger Corp. said the delay was not significant, since it was the first day of the train's operation.

An Amtrak spokesman said about 175 passengers boarded the train for the trip to Chicago and that the return train was half an hour late.

Two of the French manufactured turbine powered trains are making the run between the two cities.

The trip takes just under five hours and costs $14.50 one way.

High-speed chase is fatal for two youths

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP)—Two St. Louis teen-agers were killed Monday night when their car went out of control and struck a utility pole during a high speed chase in St. Louis County.

The Missouri Highway Patrol would not release the names of the two boys, saying they were both juveniles and that they were riding in a stolen car.

The car was first spotted traveling at a high rate of speed on Missouri 30 near Fenton. A trooper chased the car at speeds up to 70 miles per hour.

Police said the chase lasted only about three minutes when the car attempted to make a curve, went out of control and struck the pole.

Another disturbance by prisoners

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Four policemen and a prisoner were injured Monday night in a fight that developed as police were moving seven prisoners from the City Jail to a police headquarters holdover cell.

The seven, who had held 14 female hostages after an abortive escape attempt last Friday morning, were moved on the basis of a court order which said they had become too unruly at the facility.

About 50 riot equipped police forced out the prisoners, who, police said, were armed with homemade weapons fashioned from jail bars, bed fixtures and nails. The seven had barricaded themselves behind mattresses and a radiator.

The injured officers were treated for cuts and one had a fractured hand. One prisoner was hospitalized with a head wound and the others were taken to the holdover after receiving emergency treatment, police said.

The seven had negotiated for improved jail conditions for about five hours early Friday morning after they failed in an attempt to escape and took over a female prisoner section. They held 13 women prisoners and a matron hostage during the pre-dawn negotiations with jail officials.

The prisoners, two of them convicted murderers, were granted amnesty for the breakout attempt on the condition that none of the women were harmed or molested.

Stock broker is extortion victim

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Kansas City stock broker left $5,000 against a midtown fire hydrant Monday after being told by a telephone caller, "We have placed a bomb in your house."

Milton W. McGreevy, vice chairman and resident partner of Harris Upam & Co., told authorities he followed the caller's directions to the letter, leaving the money in $100 and $50 bills.

He then drove to his suburban Prairie Village, Kan., home, where he found his wife.

Find feed supplies also tight

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Livestock producers who turned to fall pastures to help offset rising costs of feed concentrates have found seed supplies also tight and expensive, according to the Agriculture Department.

Prices paid for seed used in planting fall crops for winter cover and pasture were up 47 per cent from a year earlier as of Sept. 15, says the department. Compared with base year of 1967, the prices for all seed averaged 97 per cent higher.

The Sept. 15 average price of uncertified alfalfa seed was $105 per 100 pounds, up from $54.80 on the same date last year. Certified alfalfa was $119 per hundredweight, up from $64.50.

Other seeds such as clover, timothy, orchardgrass, vetch and fescue also have soared in price.

Seed for the big field crops have risen too. Wheat for fall planting averaged $7.20 per bushel Sept. 15, compared with $2.97 a year earlier. Oats were $3.90 compared with $2.97; barley $4.60 compared with $2.88; and rye $4.90 compared with $1.78 a year ago.

Head-on collision kills both drivers

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Two drivers were killed Monday night on U.S. 59 five miles south of here when their cars collided head-on, the highway patrol said.

The victims were identified as Richard J. Boos, 41, Atchison, Kan., and Thomas Preston Vance, 54, Kansas City.

Incurable obesity is noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fatties who spend hours and days and weeks bicycling in place, doing pushups, lifting weights and sitting in steam baths in hopes of achieving the "Twiggy" look may be wasting their time.

Same for skinny people who eat and eat in anticipation of being "pleasingly plump."

They may be permanently the way they are for the very good reason that they're supposed to be, according to Dr. Myron Winick of Columbia University's Institute of Human Nutrition.

Speaking to a nutrition seminar Monday, Winick said doctors have long recognized two kinds of fat people: Those who can lose weight and maintain their new slim look and those who, while they may have lost weight on a strict diet, "zoomed right back up."

He said this is because they developed a certain number of fat cells during their formative years and now they're stuck with them.

Dynamite-loaded truck overturns

CAIRO, Ill. (AP) — U.S. 60 just east of the Mississippi River was closed to traffic here early Tuesday when a truck hauling more than 600 cases of dynamite overturned.

The tractor-trailer, owned by Tri-State Motor Transit Co., Joplin, Mo., tipped over in a ditch. Traffic in both directions was being diverted and the curious were being kept at least 2,500 feet away from the scene until the dynamite could be loaded onto another truck.

Picketer is happy with veto

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — When self-proclaimed "muckraker-in-chief" Robert H. Simpson heard a repeal of the so-called Simpson law had been vetoed, he hurried to the Capitol and to his 257th arrest for picketing.

"I'm happy, happy, happy that he vetoed the bill," the 93-year-old Simpson said as he was led to a state police car Monday.

"Now I'll make them arrest me every damn day—twice a day, three times a day."

The "Simpson law" bans picketing inside the Capitol, and Simpson has been arrested consistently for violations of the law.

But he has been convicted only once and that's being appealed. He never has served time in jail.

California Gov. Ronald Reagan vetoed a bill which would have repealed the law, which was passed four years ago after a series of demonstrations in which crowds filled corridors and offices. Law enforcement officers say the law is needed because some picketers carry signposts that can be used as weapons.

Simpson uses only short strips of lath and cardboard.

"I will destroy Reagan," said the placards around his neck and tied to his chrome wheelchair and walking aid.

British-born Simpson, whose first picketing arrest was in front of the House of Commons in 1902, almost never mentions the origin of his present campaign. That was to protest a six-month internment in a mental hospital before he was found sane.

FBI enters search for kidnap victim

SHENANDOAH, Iowa (AP)— FBI agents have joined local law enforcement officers in a four state search for Robin Hodge, 17, who was allegedly kidnaped Monday.

Police said Miss Hodge was allegedly forced into a car by three young men as she waited for a school bus.

Arrest warrants were issued for Larry Davis and John Goodall, both 17 and both from Shenandoah. The third alleged abductor, known only by the name "Sam," was not named in the warrant.

Officers said Miss Hodge's brothers, Ricky, 14, and Kenneth, 12, told them they saw their sister being forced to enter the car.

Page County Sheriff Dick Hunt said the car involved was seen Monday in Maryville, Mo., about 60 miles south of Shenandoah. Maryville authorities reported there was a second car accompanying that car at that time.

The same two vehicles were seen a short time later near Rock Port, Mo., police said.

U.S. may back bid by Teheran

VARNA, Bulgaria (AP) — Russian officials called a news conference to publicize Moscow's 1980 Olympic Games bid at the Olympic Congress here Tuesday as a challenge by Teheran picked up steam.

Hassan Rassouli, secretary general of the Iranian National Olympic Committee, was told by U.S. Olympic officials that the United Sates may support Teheran and drop tentative plans to put forward Los Angeles for the 1980 Games.

Moscow, which has set up an exhibit for the Congress delegates here, is expected to press its case at Tuesday's press conference countering busy backstage efforts by Iranian officials to gather support.

OSAKA, Japan — Top-seeded Ken Rosewall of Australia led the advance in the $25,000 Osaka Tennis Tournament with a 6-7, 6-0, 6-2 first-round victory over Australian Ian Fletcher.

Grand jury transcript is released

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former presidential advisor John D. Ehrlichman told a grand jury he thinks President Nixon approved sending two members of the White House plumbers squad to California to investigate the leak of the Pentagon papers.

But Ehrlichman did not indicate that Nixon approved any illegal operations.

The California trip by E. Howard Hunt and G. Gordon Liddy resulted in the 1971 break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Ehrlichman's remarks were contained in the transcript of the eight hearings that led to the Sept. 4 indictments returned by a Los Angeles County grand jury against Ehrlichman and three others.

The transcript of the hearings was released Sunday after none of the defendants challenged its being made public. Normally, grand jury testimony is secret.

The text shows that Ehrlichman admitted that he and Egil Krogh Jr. participated in making the investigation decision. Ehrlichman said Krogh was considered the head of the plumber's squad, which was set up to plug leaks of government information.

Ehrlichman, as he did in testimony before the Senate Watergate committee, told the grand jury he didn't know the California trip would result in a break-in. In testimony before the Senate committee, Ehrlichman said he had approved "a covert operation" to gain information on Ellsberg but insisted he did not approve a burglary.

In the grand jury transcript, Ehrlichman is quoted, regarding the decision to send men to California, as saying: "I believe the recommendation was discussed specifically with the President before it was approved."

The indictments returned Sept. 4 against Ehrlichman, Krogh, David Young and Liddy were for the break-in at Dr. Lewis J. Fielding's office over the 1971 Labor Day weekend. Hunt, who was offered immunity in return for his testimony, was not indicted.

Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo had been indicted for leaking the Pentagon papers, which detailed the history of U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war. The charges against both were dropped.
